HOUSEWIVES BUYING MEAT BITE AT TIME

Butchers Say Sales Still Up But Individual Purchases Are Much Smaller.

While the nation balked at higher food prices today, Mansfield housewives were taking home smaller purchases of meat, and still leaving butter high and dry on grocers' shelves.

Milk sales were reportedly not affected by Tuesday's increase to 17 cents a quart.

The cut in meat purchases was attributed to larger supplies and better selections. Butchers said that shoppers buy oftener now, but less at a time.

Sees Price Drop.

Commenting on the high price of meat per pound, one dealer said, "As soon as the larger cities get a supply of meat on hand, the prices will come down. The large cities were hardest hit during the meat famine."

Another meat dealer, who said meat is up from 10 to 15 cents per pound now, predicted no stabilization of prices before another year.

Hamburger—85 to 45 cents per pound.
Swiss steak—48 to 65 cents per pound.
Sirloin steak—55 to 76 cents per pound.
Cube steaks—60 to 75 cents per pound.
Pork chops—45 to 60 cents per pound.
Pork roasts—45 to 55 cents per pound.

Dairies and retail grocers didn't agree today on movement of butter to the consumer. Only one dairy admitted its sales were down. Other local butter manufacturers said that "demand was still greater than the supply."

Grocers Won't Buy.

Grocers reported sales of butter down 75 to 85 per cent. Most of them said that they bought no butter last week and that they would buy none this week, until two-week-old supplies were sold out.

A Marion avenue grocer dropped his butter price to 76 cents today, which he said was one cent above the wholesale price he paid for it. Another, who dropped to 79 cents the first of the week, said butter in his store was still not moving.

"Customers won't buy butter at the present price and margarine is so scarce it isn't much of a

HOLDS LEAD

Georgia Voters Swing Back to Talmadge.

ATLANTA —(AP)— The political pendulum has swung again in Georgia it seems, sending Eugene Talmadge, the self-styled defender of white supremacy, to the governor's mansion for the fourth time.

The returns are not all in from yesterday's Democratic primary—the counting may last for hours yet—and no one is conceding anything, but Talmadge's apparent lead is increasing.

The unit votes are what count in Georgia and Talmadge has enough indicated unit votes to win, with some to spare. Yet 36-year-old James V. Carmichael is leading in the popular vote.

WON'T JOIN HUBBY

YOUNGSTOWN —(AP)— A Youngstown World War II veteran has filed a divorce action against his British wife, asserting she will not leave her native country. Virgil Summers, jr., an aerial gunner who spent 19 months in a German prison camp, charged Dorothy Allen Summers, 25, of Lancashire, England, a former British WAAF, with gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty.

CHILD SEARCH ENDS

FRANKFORT, Ky.—(AP)—The search for tiny Loretta Doan, 3, missing since July 4 in the wooded terrain near her Livingston, Ky., home, has been abandoned and Kentucky highway patrolmen aiding in the search have been withdrawn, Col. John Baker, patrol director, said today.

First of Big 'Airmada' Due In Tomorrow

Army, Navy Commercial Craft Coming From All Over U. S.

Airplanes worth $25,000,000 will start arriving in Mansfield tomorrow, from all points of the compass for the Airport Dedication and Sky Show Saturday and Sunday. In all, 250 planes are expected between now and Sunday.

For these two days Mansfield will literally be an aerial Mecca—with planes flying in from the west coast, New Mexico, Texas, Louisiana, Rhode Island, Virginia, South Carolina and Chicago, to say nothing of scores of Ohio cities.

Anticipation increased throughout the city today, with the big event now only hours away.

Programs Out.

Hitting newsstands today are copies of the red-white-and-blue bound programs for the dedication, Saturday and Sunday, at the airport and in downtown Mansfield, they'll be sold by the Mansfield chapter of the Amvets.

The program, to be sold at 25 cents a copy, carries a pictorial-word history of aviation in Mansfield and the development of the new, $2,000,000 airport and of the types of planes which will participate in the sky show. There is also an hour-by-hour schedule of the two-day program and a list of the more than 300 Mansfielders and Mansfield industries which underwrote the $10,000 dedication ceremony. The program carries no advertising.

STALIN ORDERS ARMY SHAKEUP

(Copyright 1946 by United Press)

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Generalissimo Stalin hasshaken up the high command of the Red army and relegated Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, the Soviet Union's top war hero, to an obscure provincial post.

No announcement of the Red army shakeup has yet been made to the Soviet public but the United Press today learned that it already has been carried out.

The chief victim of the Red army reorganization, so far as the United Press has been able to learn, has Zhukov, commander of all Red army ground forces and the top military hero of Russia's World War II campaigns.

First intimation of the Red army shake-up came in a brief United Press dispatch which cleared Moscow censorship.

Thinks Hughes on Road to Recovery

LOS ANGELES —(INS)— Howard Hughes today was regarded as definitely on the road to recovery. As Hughes himself expressed it to his physician, Dr. Verne R. Mason, "I feel better than I have since I was injured."

Court Will Nose Out Facts

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Judge Walter Gates found on his calendar a case in which a man was charged with stealing 27,800 pounds of garlic.

"People might say that this case smells," observed the judge.

"At least the prosecution has a strong case," rejoined Deputy District Attorney Harry Johnstone. The trial was set for Sept. 4.

LEWIS GAINS NEW TOEHOLD

Union Wins First Contract Covering Supervisory Workers in Mines.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A government-granted wage agreement covering 136 mine supervisors gave John L. Lewis a new toehold today in the soft coal industry.

It means that Lewis and his United Mine Workers have won the first contract specifying supervisors' wages and working conditions ever negotiated in the industry's history.

Mine owners for years have resisted all attempts to enter into union contracts applicable to supervisors on the contention that supervisors represent management.

In recent weeks the operators sought unsuccessfully to restrain the government from entering into such an agreement. The mines still are under federal ownership as a result of the seizure order which grew out of the two-month bituminous strike this spring.

The agreement signed by Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug and Adm. Ben C. Moreell, coal mines administrator, stipulates that it is to be effective only for the period of government possession.

The coal industry views as inevitable that Lewis will insist on the operators' accepting, once they resume ownership, all the terms and conditions which existed during government seizure.

The agreement announced last night applies only to the 136 supervisors at four mines of the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation in western Pennsylvania, the Vesta No. 4, 5 and 6 and the Shannopin mine at California, Pa.

HOT AND HUMID

That's What Forecaster Says You Can Expect Tomorrow.

"Warmer today, hot and humid tomorrow," is the weather bureau's forecast for Ohioans who have had about three days to cool off in preparation for the new heat wave.

High temperatures yesterday varied from 80 to 89 over the state. They were to climb into the low 90's this afternoon and hit a few degrees higher tomorrow.

Mansfield's highest temperature yesterday at the Longview substation was 86 degrees. The mercury climbed from 73 degrees at 8 a. m. this morning to 85 degrees at noon.

Strike to Close Italian Papers

ROME —(U.P.)— Printers and paperworkers throughout Italy will strike at noon today plunging all Italian newspapers into the mounting wave of labor disputes which has spread from the Alps to Sicily leaving at least three dead and 50 wounded.

General strikes protesting Premier Alcide De Gasperi's salary downhold have gripped four cities and tied up the nation's petroleum industry, halting delivery of UNRRA supplies.

Broadway 'Find' Suns Himself At Malabar

Paul Douglas Thanks Lady Luck for Success In Theater; Recalls Mansfield's Jane Wilson.

By GEORGE SATTLER

"What I really oughta do is make out my will to good old Lady Luck."

That's the way Paul Douglas, the theater's shiniest new "find," modestly described his recent rise to Broadway stardom as he lay soaking in Richland county sunshine at Malabar, home of Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield, yesterday.

Douglas was found at Malabar's swimming pool "taking it easy" and enjoying the company of George Hawkins, Bromfield's manager, and Hope Bromfield, the author's daughter.

"I've always wanted to make good in the theater," Douglas said, "but it took a combination of luck, Garson Kanin, George S. Kaufman, Ruth Gordon and a play called 'Born Yesterday' to put me on top."

"During the war Garson Kanin, well-known Hollywood director, wrote a play called 'Born Yesterday'," Douglas recalled. "One night he was discussing the play with George S. Kaufman, well-known playwright, and Ruth Gordon, actress.

"While hashing over the play, Kaufman kept saying over and over that the leading man in the play should be a guy just like Paul Douglas.

"After listening to this line of talk for several hours, Ruth Gordon, being a woman and practical, said, 'Well, boys' why don't you just go get Paul Douglas?'"

It wasn't long before Douglas, who happened to be in town at the moment, was auditioning the part, with Jean Arthur reading the feminine role.

"Three days later I had the job."

Flees, But Can't Escape Conscience

NEW PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)—The Tuscarawas county treasurer was $206 richer today because a former Dover, O., resident was troubled by his conscience.

County Prosecutor A. B. Cunningham received a check for that amount from a San Francisco attorney. An accompanying letter explained that the attorney had a client who had been arrested in Dover in 1932 for petit larceny and fined $200 and cost. The letter explained that the man fled to the west coast without paying the fine, became a foreman in a war plant—but couldn't forget the debt. Prosecutor Cunningham sent a "paid in full" receipt to the attorney.

GET GOING ON BUILDING PLAN

Citizens Group Ready to Aid Social Agencies in Big Modernization Program.

A plan to get new building programs under way for Friendly House, the YMCA, YWCA, Salvation Army and Girl Scouts was tentatively adopted by the executive committee of the Citizen's council in a meeting last night at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Still to be formally ratified, the plan puts the initiative for carrying out the drives to the agencies themselves. It also lets the agencies determine how much money will be spent on the basis of a percentage which each agency can raise for itself. To this will be added "a very substantial contribution."

Full details of the plan will be revealed following contact with agency boards and ratification by the council.

Cost of the program has been estimated at from $800,000 to $1,000,000.

Friendly House last week was donated a site for its new building on North Mulberry street by Carl Sternbaum, 165 Vale avenue, as a memorial to his war hero son, Lt. Jacob Sternbaum.

Urges Citizens to Back Liquor Laws

LAKESIDE —(INS)— A move was underway today to foster cooperation between the Ohio liquor department and citizens, particularly prohibitionists.

H. T. Chapman, chief of the department's permit division, urged 700 women members of the Lakeside School of Christian Service of the Methodist church to co-operate in bringing about more effective liquor control.

WINS REFUND OF $618,000

Frank Black Estate Granted Claim That Taxes Were Excessive.

A refund of $618,358 to the estate of Frank B. Black, former president of the Ohio Brass company who died Dec. 19, 1937, has been ordered by Federal Judge Robert N. Wilkin.

Judge Wilkin, in federal district court in Cleveland, ordered the refund by the internal revenue bureau after Mr. Black's heirs and executors, sons Robert B., Donald S., and Roger A. Black, sued for the $618,358 plus interest on the grounds that excess estate taxes were paid in 1942.

The government, after prolonged examination of the estate's records, maintained that certain gifts made by Mr. Black since 1916 were not bona fide and should be taxed, William M. Weldon, attorney for the estate, reported.

But the executors claimed these gifts were not made by Mr. Black in anticipation of his death as an attempt to avoid payment of estate taxes and Judge Wilkin upheld the claim.

Mr. Black left a total estate of $1,067,601, the bulk of which he willed to his widow, the late Jessie B. Black, and the three sons.

Ohio inheritance taxes totaling $156,172 were paid in 1939 and 1942; $136,841 of these were paid under protest and are still pending a ruling of the Ohio tax commission.

OPENS DEBATE

Senate Considers Amendment on Women's Equal Rights.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The senate resumes debate today on the 23-year-old proposal that the constitution be amended to provide equal rights for women.

The equal rights amendment was first introduced on Capitol Hill in 1923, and has been brought up every year since. It has been opposed consistently by organized labor, some women's organizations and a section of the legal profession.

WHEELER LOSES

BUTTE, Mont. —(INS)— U. S. Senator Burton K. Wheeler had conceded his defeat today in Tuesday's Democratic party primary in Montana, as his 40-year-old opponent, Leif Erickson, won by more than 5,000 votes.

Converging on Mansfield from all points of the compass will be some 250 planes worth at least $25,000,000 which will take part in the dedication of the city's new airport Saturday and Sunday. This sketch shows where the aircraft are coming from and the numerous types of military, commercial and private aircraft which will perform during the two-day ceremony. Two of the ships will bring in special cherry and gardenia cargoes for the dedication, three others will be stunt planes. Top-flight army and navy planes will come from bases throughout the country.

Offers Eyes To Aid Some Blinded Vet

DETROIT —(INS)— A World War I veteran who says he is living on "borrowed time" is offering his eyes to the army so that they may give sight to a blind G.I.

The World War I veteran is James W. Todd, former Detroit and Cleveland Navigation company ship pilot. He carries five sniper's wounds on his body as a result of action in Belleau wood with the 156th infantry.

"My doctor says I may die soon," in ten days, three or six months. I can't work because of my health. Why should I sit around like this when I can do something for some young, healthy and good boy doomed to sit in the dark forever?"

His wife, Jennie, 55, has given Todd permission to sacrifice his sight, so another may see.

"She said she was proud of my spunk," the veteran states.

Local army officials to whom Todd made his offer, suggested he contact doctors at Percy Jones hospital in Battle Creek.

CHINA TENSE

Rival Armies Getting Ready For New Conflict.

NANKIN —(AP)— Rival Chinese government and Communist armies were on the march along the mighty Yangtze river today and clashes north of this vital artery of China posed a threat of full-scale civil war.

Gen. Chou En-Lai, leader of the Communist delegation in Nanking, charged the government with "aggressions" and told a press conference "local conflicts are blossoming rapidly into civil war."

Peng Hsueh-Pei, minister of information, denied this and asserted that Communist armies instead were marching from the north upon the Yangtze, along whose banks lie Nanking and the great port of Shanghai.

REOPENING OF INVESTIGATION NOW PROBABLE

Committee Counsel Refuses to Give Hint on Nature of Latest Facts.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Uncovering of "new evidence" bearing on a midwest munitions combine may prompt reopening of public hearings, the senate war investigating committee reported today.

The "new evidence" delayed a committee decision on what steps it might take in hailing Chairman May (D., Ky.) of the house military committee before it for a public explanation of his activities in connection with the combine.

The committee met for more than an hour behind closed doors for a "general discussion" of possible steps.

* * *

Invited Twice.

Two written invitations already have been sent to him by Chairman Mead (D., Ky.) to appear "voluntarily." But he has laid down conditions for that appearance—among them the right to cross examine witnesses and summon records—which the committee has refused to accept.

May has acknowledged that he aided the Illinois industrial combine during the war years, but has insisted that aid was for the war effort alone, and has denied that he profited personally.

Yesterday the committee heard testimony that he once asked an official of the combine: "What about that $3,000?"

At the close of today's executive session, Francis Flanagan of committee counsel announced the discovery of new evidence, but flatly refused to disclose to reporters even an "inkling" of its nature or who it involved.

* * *

Might Start Again.

He acknowledged that it might involve the reopening of public hearings.

Mead, who brought public hearings to a tumultuous end yesterday, said the committee also will decide what action to take on the non-appearance of Murray Garsson. Garsson was one of the promoters of the Erie Basin Metal Products company of Elgin, Ill., and Batavia Metal Products company of Batavia, Ill., leading companies in the munitions setup.

The chairman told newsmen that the committee is "not satisfied" with Garsson's statement that he is unable to leave Havana because of ill health, and will consult with its chief counsel, George Meader, as to the legal possibilities in connection with both Garsson and May.

SEEK SLAYER

Killer Keeps Keys of Dead Woman's Automobile.

LISBON —(INS)— Columbiana County Sheriff George E. Hayes pressed his hunt today for a killer with keys to the car in which Mrs. Geraldine Bock, of Grafton Branch, Pa., was shot to death.

The 26-year-old mother of two children was discovered, face up and almost nude, about 50 feet from the automobile by a man en route to work.

City Looks for New Tax Method

COLUMBUS —(INS)— An occupation tax, a city payroll tax or an automobile use tax were the chief possibilities today as Columbus sought a substitute for the utility consumers' tax ruled unconstitutional by the state supreme court.

City council, meeting in emergency conference last night, instructed City Attorney Richard W. Gordon to make a survey of substitute revenue sources. The five per cent utility tax represented about 27 per cent of Columbus' general operating revenue. It had brought in over a half-million dollars during the first six months of the year.

Moving Day Has Changed, Especially For City Printing Establishment

"Moving days have certainly changed," remarked H. A. Giesige, owner of the Pioneer Printing company, as he watched a big crane swing a heavy press from a doorway on the second floor of the News-Journal building to a waiting truck on North Walnut street below.

Giesige, who is moving his printing establishment back to the same location it occupied 14 years ago at 37½ East Third street, recalled that when the move was made in 1932 the heavy presses, some weighing several tons, were lowered from one building and hoisted into the other by placing a large pole on the roofs of adjoining buildings and attaching a block and tackle to it.

In moving out of the building on East Third street 14 years ago the weight of one of the heavy presses caused the roof to give way under the pole and dropped the press about two feet just as it was ready to be swung out of the window, Giesige said.

Moving now with the aid of a mobile crane some of the presses were back in operation two and one-half hours after the transfer was begun.

At the time of the other move the printing establishment was known as Rickets and Nichols.

Hogs Get Hungry Because of Strike

CANTON —(U.P.)— Charges were made today that the city of Canton is breaking delivery contract with a hog ranch because of a three-day strike of garbage collectors.

M. L. Quigley, owner of the ranch, asserted that he could secure no feed to replace garbage normally delivered to his hogs which was stopped when 32 truck drivers and helpers walked off their jobs along with other Canton service workers.

REDDY FOX EXPLAINS

Knowledge is a thing to share;
Every one has some to spare.
—Old Mother Nature.

Whatever else may be said of Reddy Fox no one can say that he is not a good father. He does his full share in helping to feed and bring up his children and start them out in the Great World. Perhaps this is why Foxes are among the smartest of all the folks of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest who wear fur. No others know better how to outwit their enemies and look out for themselves.

Reddy Fox was awakened from a nap in the Old Pasture by the sound of someone moving about among the bushes. It was a very big person who didn't care how much noise he made. Reddy remained still, listening but ready to slip away silently should there be need. To judge by the noise made in moving about among the bushes it might be one of those two-legged folks whom Reddy regards as his worst enemies was in the Old Pasture.

"When is that?" the young Fox wanted to know.

Then he heard a whine. In it were eagerness and desire and pleasure. It was followed by a grunt. That was satisfaction. Reddy grinned as he got to his feet and prepared to steal around to where he could see as well as hear this unexpected visitor.

"Buster Bear," muttered Reddy. "I wonder who told him that berries are ripe. If there is anything that black rascal loves more than berries. I don't know what it is."

Just then what Mrs. Reddy called Reddy's living image appeared cautiously poking his head out of the bushes. He too heard the strange noises and his eyes were wide with wonder. There was fear in them too. Reddy grinned more broadly than ever.

"It is Buster Bear," said he. "Just keep out of his way and you will have nothing to fear from him. All he is interested in just out of his way and forget about him. What were you doing over now is berries. Nothing else would bring him out of the Green Forest into the Old Pasture."

"He must be the big black stranger I saw in the Green Forest," said the young Fox, his eyes still wide with wonder and doubt. "He gave me a dreadful fright. Such teeth! Such claws! And he is so big!"

"Never judge others just by looks. Some of the biggest folks are the most harmless. Buster Bear may be and is a terrible fellow to some folks, but not to Foxes. He couldn't catch one of us if he tried unless he found one of us asleep, and any Fox who would allow Buster Bear to find him asleep would deserve to be caught. As I said before, just keep in the Green Forest?" said Reddy

"Just looking around," replied the young Fox.

"Did you see anyone else?" asked Reddy.

"A big bird who seemed to have something the matter with her, but I guess she didn't have," said the young Fox, looking a bit sheepish.

Reddy chuckled. "Mrs. Grouse," said he. "You tried to catch her and couldn't although she seemed to be badly hurt. Somehow she always managed to flop out from under your paws. When she had led you some distance from where you first saw her she took to her wings and flew away."

The young Fox stared at his father. "How do you know?" he asked in wonder.

"I was fooled in the same way when I was young," explained Reddy. "Sooner or later most Foxes are fooled the same way. Just don't let her or anyone else fool you in that way again."

"But why did she do it? What good did it do her?" asked the troubled young Fox.

"She had babies," said Reddy.

"No, she didn't," contradicted the young Fox. "She was alone."

"She had babies, probably a lot of them, hidden around where you first saw her, and she led you away from there. That is how badly she fooled you," explained Reddy. "Young Grouse are very good eating," he added.

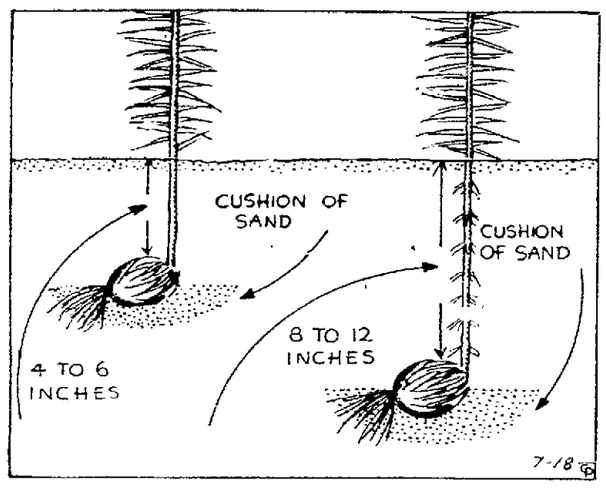
The young Fox looked chagrined. "So that was it!" he exclaimed. "She won't fool me again that way. Next time I will look around."

"And you probably won't find the babies if you do," said his father. "There is only one time of year to chase a seemingly hurt Grouse."

"When is that?" the young Fox wanted to know.

"In the season of dreadful guns You don't know about those yet, but you will," replied Reddy.

Today's Garden-Graph



Proper Planting Depth for Lilies

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Gardeners who have ordered lily bulbs for fall planting should make plans now for their planting. Planting depths are important, since lilies are divided into two groups — stem-rooting and base-rooting.

Base-rooting lilies should be planted from 4 to 6 inches deep, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Most firms specializing in lilies note in their catalogs the proper depth of planting for each species.

The steam - rooting lilies have two sets of roots, one from the base of the bulb and the other from the base of the stem. These lilies should be planted deeply, 8-10 or even 12 inches. The general rule is to plant stem-rooting varieties three and one-half times the depth of the bulb. Plant the bulbs on a cushion of sand.

Lilies revel in a loose, friable soil, rich in organic matter. An ideal soil is one consisting of equal parts of sand, well-rooted leafmold and garden loam. If leafmold cannot be obtained, well-rooted manure can be used, but it should be so old that it is really humus. It is a mistake to use fresh manure around lily bulbs, as it is inclined to breed diseases.

Most lilies except the very hardy sorts are benefited by a winter mulch. Well-rooted leafmold is ideal and can be left on the year around. Clean wheat, rye or marsh hay is also good. Do not put on thicker than four inches and not until after the ground is well frozen.

Barclay on Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

You will often have an option as to which card to lead from the suit you have decided upon. At its head may be a sequence which would justify the top of the touching honors. Leading that would give no information to your partner about the length of the suit. If it is of four cards or more, you may think of leading the fourth-best. At times the doubt may be resolved by the bidding your opponents did. If the declarer showed his relative suit-lengths in two other suits, your lead of a fourth-best may give your partner a complete count of declarer's hand and your own as well.

East refrained from bidding his diamonds because he thought he saw a No Trump contract in the offing, and he had a good lead against it. But, since diamonds were not bid, West feared his singleton lead, with no stopper in trumps, so opened a club, the J.

East was a good card reader and West a bad one. Seeing three hearts in dummy, West should have known East held a singleton, since South showed four with his bid. The heart A on the second trick, then another heart, would have launched a winning defense. But West, seeking his club J win, disregarded East's 2 and led the club 10, South ruffed, took out trumps, and lost further tricks only to the red aces, so made his contract.

Suppose West had led the club 6. East, already knowing about South's five spades and four hearts, would have counted him then for just one club and three diamonds. West therefore having a diamond singleton. So he would have won that first trick with the club Q, then led his diamond A, plus a second diamond for West to ruff. West would have taken his heart A, then led a second heart for East to ruff. Then West would have ruffed another diamond and East another heart. That would have given the defenders the first seven tricks, setting the contract four.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you

30 Rounds of Boxing Set for Outdoor Arena Tonight

Although most of the publicity you've seen to date on the new $2,000,000 Mansfield airport has had to do with the dedication this Saturday and Sunday, it won't hurt to realize some of the port's advantages from the sports angle.

In the Mansfield of the future—which we hope some day will have a memorial hall, we can visualize a lot of possibilities.

At various times we've mentioned in these columns the numerous events—both sports and otherwise—that could be held here if we had an indoor arena.

Now with our modern air facilities there are many other big events which can be held here.

It will now be possible to bring entertainers from the sports and theatrical world to Mansfield for one-night engagements.

* * *

Attempting to put down in type just what we have in mind is still something else. Probably some of them will seem a little far fetched.

* * *

But, for example, you could fly in pro basketball teams for exhibition tilts, touring tennis stars could include Mansfield on their itinerary to mention two on the sports side.

Cleveland musicians, or singers from Chicago or even New York could be brought here for a one-night engagement and they could board a plane and be back in their home city by the next morning.

Of course, such thinking is definitely long-range since we don't have the auditorium.

Then, too, an auditorium would be primarily for the use of the home town—for all types of sports events in which local athletes would participate.

* * *

A reader of the sports page, John B., sends us a card which inquires: "How about giving the thousands of baseball fans in and around Mansfield a break and enter the Cleveland Indians box scores in your paper? You would be doing us all a great favor."

* * *

This writer would like nothing better than to run the boxes on the Tribe, but, as is too often the case, we're short on space.

* * *

When the time comes and we get more space each day, these pages will carry the box scores.

Carbetta Goes After Lewis In Main Go

Jim Alexander, George Kerestes Also Appear On Show Starting At 8:15.

By HAL CLAWSON

Boxing fans in this area will be treated to their first outdoor show of the summer here tonight when 30 big rounds of professional boxing will be presented at the Armory arena.

First bout is set for 8:15.

Paul Carbetta, Mansfield's featherweight hope, again provides the main attraction on the Rex Reese-Sam Miller promoted show.

And it will be more than just another fight for the local 124-pound scrapper. He'll face Dick Lewis of Dayton in the 10-round main go—and therein lies a story.

Back in 1943 when Paul was just getting off to a good start in the pro ring, Carbetta ran up against Lewis in Chicago. The result was a six-round loss by decision.

Now, some three years later, the local 24-year-old lad gets a chance to even the score right in his own backyard.

Carbetta has been training hard for this fight and he reports that he's "in great physical shape." In his last scrap here, Paul entered the ring with his muscles tight. Even by the time he kayoed his opponent in the fourth round, he still wasn't loosened up. He cited too much hard training as the reason.

* * *

Just about sharing the spotlight with the Carbetta-Lewis tussle will be the semi-final between Mansfield's Dick (formerly Jim) Alexander and Harry Woods of Columbus.

* * *

Two of the ranking welterweights in Ohio, they'll meet in the semi-final six-round bout.

Alexander, who fought here as an amateur before entering the navy, ran up quite a record on the west coast while fighting for the Treasure Island boxing team.

He won the San Francisco Golden Gloves welterweight title in 1943, and was rated one of the best fighters ever to appear on the coast. In 1944, Alexander was the Pacific Coast AAU champ.

In the other six-rounder, Don Ferio, 147, Columbus, will tangle with Phil Scott, 147, of Marion.

In the two four-round bouts, George Kerestes of Mansfield and Jack Louden of Columbus meet in a middleweight bout while lightweights Billy Banks of Columbus and Tommy Welch of Delaware go in the other.

Third men in the ring tonight will be John Eichinger, Bill Harry and Dick "Honey Boy" Jones.

Paul Eliot and Dr. B. W. Stern will be the judges, Sam Fox the timekeeper and Jim Brownscombe the ring announcer.

Grays Lose at Wakeman

WAKEMAN—Mansfield Grays lost a free-scoring baseball game to the Wakeman Red Caps here last night, 13-12.

The home team came from behind in the last two frames to tally eight runs and sew up the game. Mansfield's pitching and fielding faltered in these two innings.

Deeds, Martin and Hahn all took a turn on the mound for the Gray and gave up a total of 18 hits.

Drills Start For Olympics

The crunch of feet on cinders increased in tempo last night at the high school stadium as groups of boys trotted around the oval practicing starts and generally limbering up for the serious sessions to come in the local Junior Olympics.

Coach Harry Mehock again put out a call for all boys 12 to 17 years of age who are interested in track or who participated on any of the high, junior high, and grade school teams to come out Friday evening.

At present the smallest group is in the 12 and 13 year old class so a special call is out for all boys of that age.

The names of Harry Osbun, Dave Boals and Bob McKowan swelled the ranks of the youngsters striving for national honors in the first Junior Olympics to be held at Cleveland.

Watching these boys reminds one who fought in the war that this is the kind of free, clean healthful, competitive exercise and spirit.

It is a hope that something such as the Junior Olympics can spread to youngsters all over the world teaching the spirit of teamwork and fair play.

Now the Ushers To Dress Up

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Ushers are the latest employes to feel effects of the change in ownership of the Cleveland Indians.

They are going to be put into uniforms, have drills every day, march to their posts prior to the daily stint, be taught courtesy and how to be firm but not tough.

President Bill Veeck also plans an Indian band—complete with buckskin uniforms—for the fans amusement.

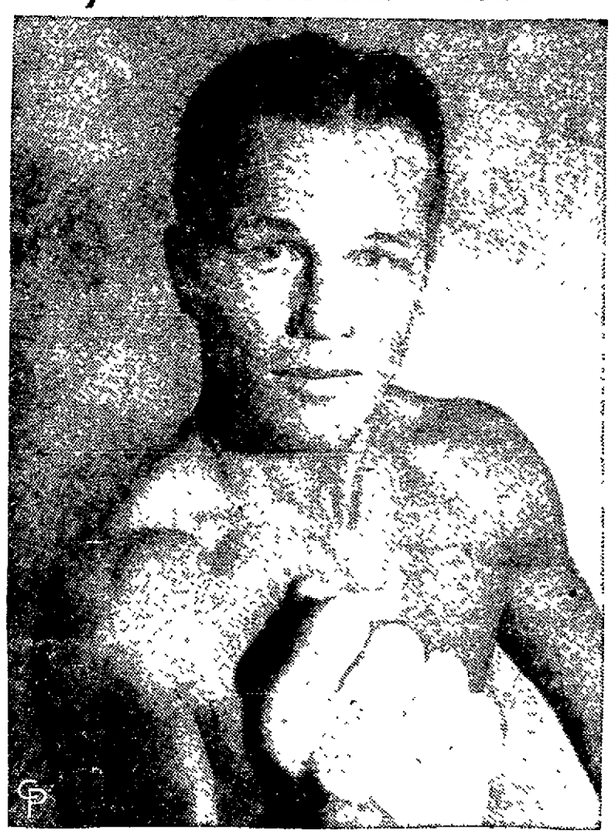
Dynamite for the "Rock"



Tony Zale, world's middleweight champion, from Gary, Ind., gives a closeup view of the lethal right fist which will play a prominent role in his defense of his title against "Rocky" Graziano in New York City's Yankee stadium a week from Thursday. Zale has started his training at his Pompton Lakes, N. J., camp.

Johnny Bulla Cracks Out a 67 In Victory Open Golf Play

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO —(AP)— Big Johnny Bulla, who claims his heart was broken when he blew the British Open title, is the hottest swinger in the Chicago Victory National golf tournament which ends some fancy preliminaries at trouble-brewing Medinah Country club today.

Bulla minimized a scorching 67 he blasted yesterday as a conglomerate field of the nation's top professionals, amateurs and women players launched a 36-hole scrap for pro-amateur, pro-lady and pro-senior titles.

"I played my biggest tournament—and lost it over in England a couple of weeks ago," boomed Bulla, whose four-under-par performance on Medinah's 6,929-yard No. 3 course equalled the club record. "I wake up nights thinking abou those last three greens I three-putted to hand the British Open title to Sammy Snead."

* * *

But the other top-notch pros, who Friday will swing into the $10,000 Victory Open, are wary of Air Pilot Johnny. Bulla, famed for his fast starts and fading finishes, has shown signs of becoming a rugged finisher. Last week-end he was the top pro behind winner Frank Stranahan, Toledo amateur, in the $20,000 Kansas City invitational.

By wrapping together a 34 and 33 yesterday, Bulla hoisted Al Anderson of Medinah, Ill., with a 40-41—81, into the lead in the pro-senior running. His simonpure partner, Illinois state champion Earl Wilde of Chicago, contributed a 79 for a 146 total. This was only four strokes off the pace set by Lawson Little (72) and amateur George Dawson (70).

The pro-lady leadership was held by Ben Hogan and Louise Suggs, newly-crowned Women's Western Open titlist, with 148, thanks to a phenomenal round of 75 by the poker-face lass from Lithia Springs, Ga.

Besides Bulla and top amateur Dawson, the only other player to squeeze under par 71 was Harold (Jug) McSpaden with 37-33—70.

Local Sandlot Nine Wins, 3-1

Sandlot Director Jim Lymper's older boys baseball club tallied a run in the fourth and fifth innings to defeat Shiloh, 3-1, yesterday morning at Liberty park.

Hardy and Norton shared the pitching duties for the winners allowing the Shiloh club four hits.

Lymper's team also was held to an equal number of bingles by Wallace, fine Shiloh hurler.

Cabs In Easy Win, 11-3

Only one game was played in the Independent softball loop last night as the league-leading Safety Cabs pounded out an 11-3 win over Num Num Potato Chips at Prospect park.

Kenny Windsor came through with a five-hitter, striking out six of the Chips, for his team's seventh triumph against a single setback.

* * *

The Cabs climbed on Denny Berry for 18 safeties. Bill McCarrick and Bob Boyd led the attack with home runs while the former also banged out a double.

* * *

Mansfield Hardware forefeited its second straight game with DAV getting the "win" this week.

The Klein Furs-Shell Oil contest was postponed.

Lions to Honor Mack, Boudreau

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Connie Mack, 83-year-old owner of the last-place Philadelphia Athletics, today will receive the 1946 Sportsmanship Award of Lions International, holding its annual convention here.

Convention officials said the award is "in recognition of all of Mr Mack's past achievements." They said Mack would receive it at Shibe park before this afternoon's game with the Cleveland Indians.

The Lions said Lou Boudreau, manager of the Indians, also would be honored when the Florida delegation to the convention makes him an honorary Seminole Indian chief.

Seven to Go In Rich Stake

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me.—(AP)—Seven Hambletonian entries warm up for the Goshen classic in a $1,000 three-year-old trotters' stake at the Kite track today.

Sep Palin will be up behind the popular Victory Song, which is racing for the first time on the springy Kite strip. The other entrics are Harry Pownall's Walter Spencer, Ballad, with Frank Ervin driving, the Harry Whitney entries, Theone and Chestertown, Fred Egan's Twilla Hanover, and Del Cameron's Locomotive.

Cards, Dodgers Lose; Yanks Set New Mark

Many See September Pennant Fight In National a Battle Between Cubs, Cards.

By JACK HAND, AP Sports Writer.

Brooklyn's dismal slump and the Cardinals' habit of losing to the Phillies is leaving the door wide open for the Chicago Cubs in the National league pennant scramble.

Although the Dodgers still rule Ford Frick's roost by a half game, many baseball men believe the real 1946 race in September will find the Cards and Cubs battling for the flag.

Chicago has a sound club, plagued by a series of serious injuries and off to a faltering start but Manager Charley Grimm appears to have rallied his forces for another stretch drive in defense of their championship.

Counted out of the race and rated "just another wartime club" in the early spring calculations, the Bruins today are only 3½ games out of first place.

The Cubs made ground yesterday by drubbing the Braves, 10-0, in the afternoon and then watching both the Brooks and Cards bow under the arcs. Bob Chipman's six-hit shutout performance, his first win in over a month, added another cheery note to the Chicago situation. Recent pitching form of Johnny Schmitz, Hank Wyse and Hank Borowy have been encouraging.

St. Louis once again refused to take advantage of a chance to regain the lead. The Phils' Ron Northey belted two home runs and Andy Seminick added one with the bases choked to give Oscar Judd a 10-1 early margin. The lefty faded under Card pressure in the last two rounds and had to call in relief help from Charlie Schanz and Dick Mulligan to save the 10-7 decision. It was the fifth time in 11 meetings the Phils had beaten the Birds.

* * *

Brooklyn staggered to a fifth successive setback at Cincinnati, 5-2. Their seventh defeat in eight starts on the current western tour. Young Hank Behrman appeared to have a 2-1 triumph in his pocket until the Dodger defense collapsed in the four-run eighth to give Bucky Walters his sixth decision.

* * *

Rookie Ralph Kiner sunk the New York Giants with a three-run homer and two singles behind Pittsburgh's Nick Strincevich, 8-5. Mel Ott tried everything, starting relief artist Ken Trinkle and relieving successively with Red Kress, the 39-year-old coach, and Johnny Gee who hadn't pitched a ball all season.

All major league attendance records went by the boards at the Yankee stadium when the New Yorkers lured 30,159 paying customers through the turnstiles to boost the season high to 1,510,934. The best previous mark was 1,485,166 attained by the Chicago Cubs in 1929 and that for an entire season.

Incidentally the Yanks won two from St. Louis, 3-2 and 8-4, but remained 11 full games behind Boston which dumped Chicago twice, 3-1 and 6-1. Most important development of the day to the Yanks was the accidental "beaning" of Shortstop Phil Rizzuto by Nelson Potter. Rizzuto was carried from the field and spent the night in New York hospital under observation.

Jimmy Outlaw's 12th inning double enabled Detroit to trim Washington 3-2 for Al Benton's first success since April 18.

Allie Wins 3rd Straight 8-2

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians' chances for a finish in the first division were much brighter today.

Cause of the optimism is the comeback of Allie Reynolds, an 18-game winner last year but a question mark most of the current season.

A few weeks ago the husky right-hander had won only two games while dropping 10 and Manager Lou Boudreau seriously considered dropping him from his "big four."

Then Allie was credited with a triumph over the Detroit Tigers and followed up with an eight-hit job against the New York Yankees. The big Oklahoman marked up his third straight win yesterday as the Tribe spanked the Philadelphia Athletics 8 to 2.

Reynolds doled out five hits, none between the first and seventh innings, as the Indians moved into undisputed fifth place.

His supporting cast pounded the A's Luther Knerr for 10 blows, five for extra bases, and were blanked only by reliefer Lee Griffith in the ninth.

Hank Edwards, the league's fifth best clubber, paced the Tribe with three for four—two doubles and a single.

The victory, appropriately, came on Boudreau's 29th birthday.

UNUSUAL STORY HEADS LIST OF LIBRARY BOOKS

'Balm of Gilead,' Other New Fiction, Non-Fiction, to Be Offered.

Leading the list of new fiction at Mansfield Public library this week is BALM OF GILEAD, an unconventional story of Agnes Rothery. Told through the mind of Cliff who has been thrown off balance by the horrors of war in the Pacific, it is the story of a Cape Cod house and the people of past generations who have lived there. So successfully does the author convey this situation that the reader is quite prepared to accept the unreality of the character from the past .

CLOUDY TROPHIES by Anne G. Winslow concerns four engaging persons: a southern senator and his wife, the brilliant Nora and the charming Sabina. The three women all draw their strength from the senator, and the interplay of characters is revealing and perceptively handled.

REASONABLE SHORES by G. B. Stern is another of this author's fine studies of adolescence. Sixteen-year-old Jessamy, whose mother has deserted the family, struggles with suave Uncle Lionel for the loyalty of her family, and learns a great many things while she tries to hold the family together.

Other Fiction.

HONOLULU STORY—Brown.
TORCHLIGHT PROCESSION—Douglas.
CORONER CREEK—Glidden.
HONEYFOGLING TIME—Dale.
SIGNAL FOR DANGER—Harnan.

Nonfiction.

ALEXANDER OF MACEDON, by Harold Lamb is the story of one of history's towering figures. The author has explored the actual route of Alexander's marches so the background as well as the characters come to life. His recreation throws a clear light on a lonely man of destiny who strove for a unified world and whose conquests were explorations as daring in his time as were those of Columbus centuries later.

IN THE FIRST WATCH by William McFee is a continuation of this author's sea-going autobiography. A deep and abiding love for the sea—the personalities of his sailing mates—onshore loves and lights-o'-love that bring men back to certain ports, and the beauty and dinginess of the ports themselves are detailed in hundreds of delightful anecdotes.

RADIO'S SECOND CHANCE by Charles A. Siepmann is a popular anaylsis of this means of communication. Although it is calm, and not muckraking, its implications are far-reaching for it says with feats and figures what the ordinary listener is rebelling against. The author is a consultant for FCC.

Other non-fiction:
ON TO WESTWARD—Sherrod; STORY OF THE AMERICAS—Baldwin; BURBANK AMONG THE INDIANS—Burbank and Royce; RIVER OF YEARS—Newton; PAUL ROBESON—Graham; PORTRAIT OF SHELLEY—White; PUSHKIN—Lambert; FUN WITH PUZZLES—Leeming; AIRCRAFT YEARBOOK OF 1946.

Violence Growing In Troubled Trieste

During riots that followed the decision to make Trieste an "international zone," American military police are shown tossing tear gas bombs at a mob of demonstrators. Serious outbreaks of violence occurred recently when a number of Yugoslav soldiers crossed the boundary line. Clashes between pro-Italian and pro-Yugoslav factions are frequent and Allied troops, British and American, have the thankless job of maintaining order. The GI's go into action (lower photo) to break up a mêlee in the seaport's San Giacomo square.

Take Pony Rides at Barnes-Pryor Picnic

It was a great day at North Lake park yesterday for youngsters of employes of the Barnes Manufacturing and Pryor Manufacturing companies! The annual picnic of the two concerns drew approximately 1,000 employes and their families to the park for the afternoon. Some of the younger fry many of whom got their first pony ride yesterday, are pictured here all ready to set out for a free ride on the bridle path. Others took a dip in the pool or rowed around the lake. All food served at the picnic dinner at 1 p. m. was furnished by the companies. One of the main attractions of the picnic was a full schedule of softball games, between girls' teams, and factory and office teams. General chairman for the day was John Floyd.

PLANS AIR SHOW

BUCYRUS — An airshow was being planned for mid-September by the Junior Chamber of Commerce here this week. Maurice Giffin, manager of the airport, has pledged full co-operation and invitations are being extended to Ohio pilots and those of neighboring states. Exhibits of late model aircraft also are being planned.

Skywriter to Leave Calling Card Over City on Saturday

CECIL COFFRIN

In addition to the swarm of private, commercial, and military planes which will fill the skies Saturday for the airport dedication ceremonies, will be skywriter's plane piloted by Cecil Coffrin.

Coffrin, a former navy flier, plans to leave Mansfield a calling card a mile high and 10 or 12 miles long when he comes to the airport as a representative of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling company, 82 East Dickson avenue.

By using a specially equipped plane giving off smoke compounded of oil, chemicals and gas, he expects to write a message which will remain visible for a half-hour unless there is a strong wind.

2,000 Cubic Feet of Earth Used To Fill 'Swamp' at Maple Lake

The job of moving 2,000 cubic feet of earth to the swampy region behind Maple lake, was completed yesterday by city workers and represented the initial action by park association members to beautify the park site.

The last of the six tennis courts at the park was also completed and made ready for players by the city.

Hollis J. Quinlan, president of the park association, said today that members voted to re-appropriate $600 from the $3,000, set aside by the park commission for modern conveniences in the park, for the lake beautification. Frank Burton, city parks superintendent, said that the fill dirt is being hauled from excavation sites throughout the city to the lake.

"It's very heartening to see something being done towards improving the condition of the lake," Quinlan added. "This fall and winter the city has promised us ashes and other refuse from their collections for filling. The fill-dirt will be scattered so that the lake can be filled and drained later on.

"We are also hoping that we can procure brick and old stone from the condemned school buildings for the lake."

Quinlan said that screen has been purchased by the association to enclose the entire tennis court.

Here is a section of the filled-in swamp to the rear of Maple lake, where the job of hauling 2,000 cubic yards of dirt was completed yesterday by city park workers. The section now filled in with dirt from city excavations, approximates the size of a kitten ball diamond. Park association members said that ashes from the city collections will be dumped back of the lake this fall and winter, furthering the fill-in.

but that city workers had not had the oportunity to put it up because of the pending airport dedication. A liner and heavy ratchets for the courts are also on order.

HOUSEWIVES BUYING MEAT BITE AT TIME

Butchers Say Sales Still Up But Individual Purchases Are Much Smaller.

substitute," one grocer said. "People are paying any price they can get it but meats pretty high, too."

One grocer, who said he usually sells 125 pounds of butter a week, said that he sold 20 pounds last week and none so far this week. Some of the retailers said that they would be forced to drop the price even below the wholesale price to unload the spread before it gets rancid.

Meanwhile, the United Press reported that retailers in three states today joined labor, veterans and civic groups in resisting price increases.

More than 400 members of the New Jersey Retail Butchers association planned to meet Tuesday to consider closing their shops for one day as a protest against rising wholesale meat prices.

Retail grocers in Tupelo, Miss., boycotted distributors after a five-cent a quart increase in the price of milk.

Memphis, Tenn., milk distributors refused to pass a 2½-cent a quart increase on to consumers pending congressional action on the OPA.

A week-long boycott on meat purchases, backed by CIO and AFL union leaders, was under way in Detroit. Union members in other cities pledged their support.

Reviews German Reparations Plan

LONDON —(AP)— The British government announced today that it was about to review its policy permitting the shipment of industrial reparations from the British occupation zone in Germany to Russia.

A foreign office spokesman said the reparations policy would be re-examined soon in the light of the American suspension of shipments from the U. S. zone. The American action a month ago was taken because of the alleged Russian violation of the Potsdam agreement to administer all of Germany as a single economic unit.

First of Big 'Airmada' Due In Tomorrow

Army, Navy Commercial Craft Coming From All Over U. S.

From 11 on crowds will be streaming in practically every minute.

The formal dedication ceremony is scheduled for 2 p. m. Saturday with Gen. Frank J. Lausche, Maj. Gen. T. J. Hanley, Brig. Gen. Frank P. Lahm and other high ranking army officers speaking. The program will be presented formally to Mayor R. W. Waldorf by Lane W. Wilcox, CAA official from Chicago.

Arriving here Saturday morning in a plane with Congressman C. Harry McGregor will be a group of high-ranking civilian and military aeronautics officials including James M. Landis, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board and ex-chairman of the Securities Exchange commission.

Also with McGregor will come Col. Clarence Young, member of the CAB; Col. T. A. Sams, representing Stuart Symington, assistant secretary of war for air, and Col. B. L. Boatner, representing Gen. Ira Baker, deputy commanding general of the army air forces.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the main aerial attractions start.

They include combat maneuvers by a flight of 30 Navy planes from the Aircraft Carrier Sicily, and a flight of 12 Marine Corsairs from the Naval Air Station at Columbus. These 42 planes will put on an hour long program.

The army will also do an hour-long demonstration of combat maneuvers, with Mustang pursuit ships, Invader attack bombers and the giant B-29's, with the climax coming when the Shooting Star jet fighter, takes to the air and maneuvers at speeds above 500 miles an hour.

Three famed stunt fliers account for 45 minutes, and a Navy blimp will make its appearance.

* * *

Dawn Patrol Coming.

The number of aircraft will be increased by at least 15 [illegible] day, when the Ohio Dawn Patrol comes in. These are small private ships, arriving from all over Ohio for the second day of the show.

Another Saturday feature will be the arival Saturday morning of the "Stardust Gardenia" express, with 5,000 gardenias from San Francisco, while on Sunday the "Cherry Special" brings in 6,800 pounds of cherries from far-away Washington.

United Airlines will fly in a Mainliner on Sunday, and fly it out again Sunday afternoon. American Airlines will have an Airfreighter here and TWA is bringing in a multi-engine ship.

* * *

Giant Ships Due.

Ground exhibits—both navy and army will have them, as well as private plane manufacturers and equipment makers—will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. on both days. Wright Field will display the Bell Aircraft Company's rocket, air craft a Boeing B-29 Superfortress, Mustang, Invader, Douglas A-26 and others. Other exhibits will be displayed by dozens of manufacturers of small components.

As the opening of the show—the biggest event Mansfield has ever staged—drew near J. Gilbert Baird, general chairman of the dedication committee was superintending last minute details for the staging of the program. Elaborate preparations have been made to insure the smoothest possible performance on both days.

Martial music for the dedication program and ceremony will be presented by the 36-piece Liberty Park band under the direction of veteran band-master, Frank Dekrell.

Hints Unrest In Land of Franco

LONDON —(INS)— Dispatches from Spain indicated today that all is not well in the land of Generalissimo Franco. The London Daily Telegraph's Madrid correspondent reported that yesterday, for the first time in nine years, the annual assembly of the Spanish Falangist council was not held.

The assembly convenes customarily on the eve of the anniversary of Spain's civil war. A dispatch from the frontier town of Perpignan meanwhile, said martial law has been proclaimed on one border community because of unexplained "incidents" which occurred while Spanish troops were being replaced.

NOT EXACTLY A STRANGER HERE

Just before entering service as a field officer with the OSS and CBI, he was announcer for Fred Waring's show.

"While with that show I heard a lot about Mansfield from Jane Wilson," Douglas said. "So in a way I'm not exactly a stranger around here."

Jane Wilson, a former Mansfielder, is one of Fred Waring's featured singers.

Douglas served two years overseas in England, Ireland, Sicily, North Africa and the Middle East. He was wounded when the cruiser Memphis was hit off Salerno.

When he returned to the U. S. he decided to give up radio for the stage.

"All my old friends were tired and looked like old men so I decided to look around for a theater job," he said.

Apparently the stage agrees with him, because Douglas looks more like a well-conditioned prize fighter than a "tired old man."

"Anyway, I liked the idea of having a live audience for a change," he said. "The only thing I don't like about the theater is that I miss a lot of ball games. I think these night ball games are a menace."

Douglas, who is spending a week's vacation with Louis Bromfield, an old friend, will go to New York soon to return to the play.

"I've had several offers from Hollywood," Douglas said, "but I won't be able to take any of them until the first of the year."

The play, one of the [illegible] ing successes of the season, is sold out months ahead, he said.

Douglas is married to Virginia Field, Hollywood actress.

MIGHT STAY HOME

LONDON —(AP)— Gen. [illegible] may establish a permanent residence in Sweden, British Exchange Telegraph reported today from Stockholm. "I may remain in Sweden this time," the actress was quoted as saying. "But if I do I shall make many trips to America. First of all I want a good rest."

CITY TO FREEZE RENTS

DAYTON —(AP)— Dayton rents will be frozen at June 30 levels next Wednesday unless federal or state rent control legislation is enacted earlier, it was learned today.

CROPS AT OSR BEAT LAST YEAR

Glattke Says Rain, Wind Fail to Damage Plantings of Grain, Vegetables.

Undamaged by the recent rain and wind storms, crops at the Mansfield reformatory farm are farthier along than last year at this time, Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent, said today.

Approximately 100 acres of wheat are ready to be threshed and oats is scheduled to be cut this weekend.

Corn, potatoes and garden vegetables have showed no signs of damage by the storms, Glattke said, and will produce sizeable crops.

The reformatory crops escaped rain damage which leveled several hundred acres of wheat in the northern section of the county and caused damage to mount into the thousands of dollars.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills. —Adv.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1946

What profiteth it a man to get twice as much pay if it all goes out in higher living costs?

Air enthusiasts are already evidencing at least slight surprise at meeting a person who has never made a plane trip.

Those overweight folks who are trying to reduce are finding that doing without butter and cutting down on meat is turning out to be a big help.

Guard Hotels Against Fire Hazards

YESTERDAY morning's hotel fire in Mt. Vernon, while fortunately lacking in fatalities such as marked the recent hotel fires in Chicago and Dubuque, Ia., tends to revive public interest in this subject, and it is gratifying to note that as recently as June 15, Fire Chief L. J. Steele reported that an inspection of Mansfield hotels within the preceding six months had resulted in some changes in wiring systems and additions to fire fighting equipment, and that all are now considered free from fire hazards.

Over the country, however, more than ordinary attention is being given to increasing the safety element in hotels, and New York City is leading in a campaign to stiffen regulations on its many hotels.

Four specific recommendations to prevent repetition of such holocausts as occurred in Chicago and Dubuque were made by Alfred Fleming, director of conservation of the National Board of Fire Underwriters:

1. Vertical open areas such as stairways and elevator shafts must be protected at the bottom by standard self-closing fire doors and fire walls.

2. Older buildings must have sprinkler protection in dangerous areas.

3. Employes of hotels and other large buildings must be properly educated to turn in fire alarms immediately, before attempting to put out a fire.

4. The use of certain materials on chairs, tables and furnishings that are highly inflammable and which, in some cases, generate poisonous gasses when ablaze, should be outlawed.

In regard to the Chicago fire, Mr. Fleming recalled that the fire in the La Salle hotel wasn't reported until 21 minutes after it was discovered. This is a startling example of negligence in providing proper training of employes on how to act in such an emergency.

Motoring To Airport Dedication

MOTORISTS inclined to careless or reckless driving may be somewhat annoyed by the restraint on their "personal liberty" that they will bump up against if they drive to or from Mansfield's new airport for the dedication ceremonies next Saturday or Sunday.

Not only will safety regulations be in effect but there will also be plenty of officers to see that motorists conform to these regulations, even to the extent of detouring incoming traffic to side roads when preference may be otherwise.

It is anticipated that traffic on North Main street Saturday and Sunday will be the heaviest this community has ever experienced and it may also be said that preliminary planning for handling it has been the most thorough ever attempted here.

The map printed in yesterday's News-Journal, with accompanying explanation, shows clearly what is expected of motorists, in matters of driving to and from the airport and in parking their cars while at the port.

If all who plan to drive to the airport on either of the dedication days will read and follow the instructions, and study the map, danger of accidents will be greatly reduced.

Dearth of Capable Teachers Deplored

THREE THOUSAND teachers and school administrators in a national meeting at Buffalo reveal that public education in the United States is in a grave condition. The conference, sponsored by the National Education Association, brings to light a serious teacher shortage due to inadequate and irregular wage standards.

The average teacher salary for the country is $35 a week, and many teachers receive less than $20. A half million instructors have left the classrooms for better pay elsewhere. Passage of the $250,000,000 Federal Aid Bill is necessary to raise state pay levels to figures which will bring back well-trained persons.

In the meantime 110,000, or one in ten of the teachers now employed, work under emergency licenses, which indicates that their qualifications are below the lowest of their state. Men teachers are so few that millions of children pass from kindergarten through high school entirely under female instructors.

Conference delegates said that they were not concerned about possible government interference through federal aid. They pointed to the successful administration of the nation's land grant colleges as a satisfactory pattern for subsidized public school education.

The public school problem touches every community and nearly every family. The teachers, by publicizing the critical situation, perform a duty not only for themselves but for the country.

English Take Time for Politeness

FROM a business trip in Europe which includes London, Paris, Warsaw, Prague, Bratislava, Budapest, Vienna, and if they'll admit him, Moscow, Tom Hindle, publisher's representative, writes of changes he observes in post-war London: of the prevalence of divorce, the absorption with scarcities like food and clothing, and "the same old slowness."

"Poor old nation England," says Mr. Hindle, "cannot afford these luxuries of politeness and slowness and acceptance of things that were. What she needs is a little less patient willingness to be trampled on, and a good dose of revolutionary sentiment."

Americans who have visited England would be sorry to find the gracious English courtesy missing when they go back, as some hope to do before long. And sometimes people who take a little time to be patient and courteous get along just as well as those hurried souls for whom, only too often, haste makes waste.

The Kansas City Star suggests: "Maybe the evicting landlord will soon be in to wish for a return of the day of rent controls, when he had some friends."

Headline in a New York newspaper says: "Shoe Man Muddled By Price Outlook"—who isn't?

IT'S BEEN A ROUGH TRIP

Inflation Talk Disturbs Foreigners

By RAYMOND MOLEY

THE DIRE predictions of President Truman and other OPA sponsors are having disturbing and, for us, unfavorable effects abroad. For some time, foreign visitors have been asking, as one of their first questions, whether we are going to devalue our dollar in terms of gold.

Most Americans answer with a somewhat mystified negative. Devaluation hasn't been discussed here and it isn't believed, to be possible, not to say probable. But cries of wolf in the United States are not reassuring to other nations, and some are taking action, tending toward lowering the dollar in terms of gold and in terms of their own currency.

The first step was taken by Mexico, when the national bank of that country announced a rise in the price of gold from $35 to somewhat over $40 an ounce.

The second step was taken by Canada, which announced that hereafter the Canadian dollar would be raised to par with our dollar.

The third step, more sensational than the rest, was taken by Sweden. That shrewd and thrifty nation has declared that it will now pay 15 per cent less for American dollars and British pounds. Since Sweden has a safe supply of gold, earned as a war neutral, this step can be taken with relative safety.

Under the terms of the American loan to Britain and of the Bretton Woods plan, the dollar is to be tied to the pound. This is the reason why Sweden has directed its move against both the dollar and the pound.

It is not clear what Switzerland will do. The new government of Holland, however, is said to be considering a move similar to that of Sweden.

It is clear that countries which feel that their currencies are able to resist inflation are taking measures to protect themselves against a possible inflation in the United States. One reason for this is that our Federal Reserve Board fearing that the dollar might become the backbone of black markets abroad, decided against readmitting dollars, except by official channels. This meant a rise in the dollar price of gold abroad, especially since it is impossible to change dollars into gold here.

Calm observers of American business life do not see any prospect of a serious deterioration of the dollar here.

Many times in the past, prices have moved up as much as 10 per cent a year for a while and then have come down, without disturbing the gold value of the dollar.

The prospects of a bumper crop, the big population of cattle and hogs and the prospects of a good harvest abroad are favorable signs of lower food prices before many months. Textile prices are exaggerated now, and, whatever happens, rents will probably remain controlled.

The federal budget is still well in hand. And vast technological progress over several years will bring more and different kinds of goods into the market.

Mr. Truman's predecessor once said, "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself". This would hardly be literally true now. In fact, it is never entirely true.

It is not wise for President Truman or anyone else to indulge in such exaggeration as marked the veto message of two weeks ago. Little countries abroad take things literally. They don't know the ways of American political speech-making.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, July 18, 1926.

Pattie Weddell, aged six months, was killed and four adults injured when auto overturned on Switzer hill, south of Lucas.

Lake resorts attracted many Mansfielders seeking relief from extreme heat.

Police received report that Mosberg tailor shop, East Sixth street, had been burglarized.

Auto parked on Penn avenue at St. Matthew's Lutheran church ran away and crashed into porch at J. F. Elliott home, 438 West Fourth street.

Mrs. Judson Terry, 82, died at the home of her son, A. H. Terry, Lincoln Heights.

Daughter was born in Cleveland Heights to Dr. and Mrs. Albert Lindsey, former Mansfield residents.

R. B. Gardner went to Dayton to attend U. S. army reserve officers' training school at Wright Field.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On July 18, 1932, a treaty was signed between the United States and Canada for the purpose of developing the St. Lawrence waterway into an ocean lane and a power project.

Dave Boone Says:

I SEE where the Soviet delegates to U.N. have agreed to and accepted the United States' proposal for a world health organization to work for a healthier planet. But the shock of Russia not using a veto has left the world feeling extra wobbly.

* * *

I suppose Gromyko figured Russia wouldn't put itself in the position of being too agreeable if it cooperated in opposing the spread of the common cold.

* * *

Jimmy Byrnes says: "I sometimes think our Russian friends fear we would think them soft if they agreed without a struggle on anything we wanted, even if they wanted it, too." But that was before he heard about Russia agreeing to string along with us in a global battle for ruddier cheeks.

* * *

Still I am optimistic. At the first sign that England agrees with America on a pill to help a German, Joe Stalin will kick over the traces.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Well, you were asleep and I had to have something to wear to work in the garden."

Calvin A. Byers

Diary: "The Farmer Wonders."

MY NEIGHBOR was discouraged. His wornout binder broke with almost every round. Last week he went to the city to buy parts . . . there were none in stock. He went to a welding shop, and spent the best part of a day waiting to get work done. He is a thinking man.

"I've decided to sell all my milk cows, this fall," he announced to me next morning.

"But why," I wondered, "when you've spent your best years at the dairy business?"

"There's only one answer. At the elevator today I saw by the bulletin board that plain hominy was marked $3.87 per hundred weight, regular dairy feed $4.50, laying mash even higher. I went home with a heavy heart, and plenty mad too, that Big Business can make such monkeys out of farmers! As you know, milk is $3 a hundred weight, here on the farm, even a weakminded person could reason enough to see that $1.50 worth of feed could never produce a hundred weight of milk yet the price tags are right there.

"Wheat will sell for $2 a bushel or less and sows at about the same figure, yet the market for meal after the oil is extracted is close to $5 a hundred. What reason would any farmer have for selling his wheat instead of feeding it? I'm going to keep my wheat until I see more consideration for the fellow who raises it.

"The government gave promise to every farmer, if he sold his wheat there would be 30c bonus until May 1947. When OPA goes off, what happens? Farmers are fooled again. The same thing happened after the last war. Just looks to me like the farmer don't even count in Washington. It's the automobile industry, the steel trust, the coal miners, the munition makers, the railroads and the power companies—all out for the highest rates the traffic will bear.

"I just wish farmers'd quit for long enough so the people in the big cities got good and hungry! Then the lawmakers in this country would find out in a way they wouldn't forget what class of people count for most.

"The average farmer can't count his labor into his expense account or he'd always be in the red. Seems like present laws are fixed just to keep him from making more'n a living. Working 10 to 16 hours a day—and discouraged to boot—wears a man down. Cost of machinery is so far out of proportion to what he gets for what he raises that he goes without many things he should have. Prices for cattle, sheep and hogs as well as grain are fixed by those who do not know what it costs—men who never farmed a lick. Products a farmer buys are made to sell for the highest profit possible. A man can't help wonder."

He left me and walked off down the village street. His gangly frame was drooped. His hands were in his pockets, as if he had clenched them. With relief, I saw him enter the bank. That banker has been a trusted friend of mine for many years. He, too, is a thinking man. I guess they will get together.

One Man's Opinion

Mr. Murray has ideas, often expressed, on what's wrong with congress, the White House, business, taxes, prices, wages, Republicans, Democrats and he is our man.

Outspoken Criticism Of War Profiteering.

SEATTLE, Wash.—It is a distance of more than three thousand miles from this city to Washington, D. C., and the unassisted human voice never has been known to carry that far—even when pitched in a loud and angry key.

Otherwise, there might be considerable chattering of teeth on Capitol Hill these days.

For most Seattle citizens are even more sharply outspoken on the subject of war profiteering and congressional conniving than they were over the Russian spy trial.

And, in some ways, they're most bitterly belligerent.

Understand, they're not accusing anybody. But the senate war investigating committee's current probing of the relationships between Representative Andrew Jackson May and the Garsson brothers' munitions empire has started them thinking.

And regardless of what the committee or the justice department discovers in this case, they think there should be a lot more such investigations—before the war is so long behind us that people have forgotten.

If you think they've forgotten now, you should listen to the suggestions about what should be done with anyone found guilty of conniving or profiteering at the expense of the war effort.

Understandably, ex-servicemen are brief and bitter about the whole business. I talked to scores, and not one suggested anything less than the death penalty for people found guilty.

Typical was the terse response of Ray Tenney, whose 39 months in the marine corps ended too recently to be forgotten.

"If they're found guilty, they should be shot—no matter who they are," he said. "They're no better than any other kind of traitor!"

Hotel Clerk Cecil H. Keeney, ex-GI, slowly nodded his head and soberly seconded the motion.

"It's betraying your own country, no matter how you disguise it or who does it," he said. "And you know how little time an army court martial would have wasted on a guy found guilty on a count like that."

That was the theme heard outside the ranks of ex-servicemen, too.

Clinton E. Draper, laborer who described himself as "just an all-around working man," pointed out that punishment of politicians found guilty of such wartime misconduct should be particularly stiff "because they're the ones who have the most opportunity for that sort of thing and you have to set an example. Besides, they make the laws and they're supposed to know better!"

Craggy-face Arvid Alskog, Seattle barber, stropped his razor for a long time while he pondered, then spoke with a strong Scandinavian accent. "At least they should be punished just like everyone else. Otherwise, there is no law."

Nobody even mentioned congressional immunity.

Timely Editorial

Give Us Everything Free.

The trouble with most American politicians is their timidity. They just nibble at this appealing business of giving all of us something for nothing.

We hereby propose a bold platform that goes all the way—food, clothing, shelter, medical care—the essentials of what we hear called "security"—and all for free.

Now we know some fuddy duddy will rise up and say this is radical. The taxpayers would have to pay for it. Pooh for such ancient doctrine! The government of the United States has already accepted every principle involved. We are only suggesting that our handout congressmen and public officials have the courage of their convictions and go all the way with what they have started. . .

Why not give all of us the works? Since cars have become absolutely essential to good citizenship, we would appreciate it if the rich Uncle Sam would toss in a car. And don't forget the free gas. You can't run 'em on water, you know.

There you have a political platform that means something. No tinkering with the American system around the edges. This one would bust it wide open in one stroke and we could all quit work until the Gestago came after us.—Minneapolis Star-Journal.

Some E Awards Should Be Investigated.

WASHINGTON—It might be a healthy thing if the Mead committee investigated more of the E-awards handed down to manufacturing firms by the army and navy. Senator Mead's committee already has shown how wires were pulled by top officials to get an E for the Erie Basin war profiteers at the same time lesser army officials, who knew conditions first hand, were recommending against it.

Another fishy case occurred when the navy gave an E to National Industries when it and its affiliate, Durham Manufacturing Corporation, were under indictment for war frauds. The company was actually being prosecuted by U. S. District Attorney Alex Campbell at Ft. Wayne, Ind., when, right in the middle of the trial, the navy came across with its E.

The trial had started in November, so the navy knew all about the alleged war fraud when it gave the award on Dec. 17, 1945.

Furthermore, the war was then over, and there was no need to give the company an incentive for further production.

However, someone in the navy apparently pulled the wires, and the E award, coming at just the psychological moment, had a powerful effect on the jury.

Pre-Pearl Harbor Trap.

For some weeks, certain senators have been skilfully pulling backstage wires to kill the Kilgore committee which has been probing Nazi activities and their link with Americans. A brief and confidential peek at what's in the Nazi files now makes it quite clear why senators are secretly battling so hard to squelch Senator Kilgore's investigation.

U. S. army and justice department officials have been extremely busy interviewing German officials, from Hermann Goering down, and the results are amazing. They show various high-up American leaders and businessmen to be either woefully naive or else deliberately playing into the hands of a dictatorship which had already started to conquer Europe and which was certain to be at war with us.

For instance, in Foreign Minister Ribbentrop's captured files was found this revealing memo regarding America Firster Charles Lindbergh: "It is better not to mention Lindbergh's name anymore. He's more useful to us if we keep his name out of the press—as he has asked us to."

Senator Burton K. Wheeler held various secret conferences to defend George Sylvester Viereck when on trial for sedition, despite the fact that Viereck obviously was guilty. Wheeler also made a speech defending the late Senator Lundeen, after Lundeen was exposed for delivering speeches written for him by a German agent.

The ease with which intelligent Americans fell into the Nazi trap is, of course, something they want hushed up now.

But the day may come when the same sort of danger faces the nation, and when the public should have an example before it of what goes on behind the scenes. That is why Senator Kilgore of West Virginia is pressing for his investigation.

Government Adhering to Basic Principles.

THE FIGHT over OPA has congress and the country in a somewhat feverish state.

Again we hear that brain-trusters and "leftists" are running the government and trying to set up some sort of planned economy. The OPA, of course, merely furnished another excuse for that sort of hullaballoo. It is being exploited to the limit.

This howl about OPA is not convincing to most people. Most citizens find their neighbors seriously concerned about inflation, and these people are not recognizable as "leftists." A good many would be labeled conservative.

Nor does the talk about "leftism" in government fool anybody who is familiar with the men who now control the administration.

Under President Truman middle-of-the-road officials have supplanted the more energetic and zealous type of men who helped create and carry out the New Deal.

There are, of course, organizations and individuals outside who might be considered "leftist" or "liberal," some with a sprinkling of Communists, who are active in championing certain legislation, including OPA extension in a workable form.

The mistakes of some people who profess to judge what goes on here is to confuse the activity and clamor of outside interests with what is actually accomplished. It is purposely done in many cases. That should be clearly understood.

OPA offers an example. Despite the anxiety about inflation and the public demand for a workable law, congress has not seen fit to adopt what so many people believe is necessary—not a few "leftists," but millions of people who could not by any stretch of language or imagination be put in that category.

Changes in government do not come with a wave of the hand, or a barrage of propaganda, or a shower of statements, or even with a presidential speech.

They come only after the mills of congress have ground very slowly.

It is not demands and intentions that count. It is that ultimate law, which must go through all the checks and balances in our system.

Nothing has been enacted into law in the last seven or eight years, with one exception, that introduced a new idea into our domestic economy. That exception was the so-called "Full Employment" act, which was very much modified in the end. It is, in fact, little more than an elaboration of a pet idea of Herbert Hoover's which was to plan for public works in advance for a possible depression.

Still waiting for action in congress are numerous measures recommended by President Truman. None of them depart from basic statutes already on the books. They are extensions or elaborations of principles long accepted.

It is well to remember these things so as not to be fooled by the noisy outcry.

International Intrigue Rivals Fiction.

WASHINGTON — The Nazis' chief objective in 1939 and 1940 was to keep Franklin D. Roosevelt from a third term in the White House. In discussing ways and means of needling political propaganda into the United States, Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop explained to subordinates that it was essential to defeat Roosevelt because he, more than any other American, was capable of making "sweeping political decisions."

The story of German intervention in the political campaign of 1940 was recently uncovered in the searching investigation conducted in Germany by Assistant Attorney General O. John Rogge for the department of justice.

His report, which will be turned over to Attorney General Tom C. Clark, should be made public. It contains names and connections hitherto undisclosed.

One of the Americans who conferred with Hermann Goering and other Nazis on ways to defeat Roosevelt was the late William Rhodes Davis, oil man whose international intrigues make fiction look pale. Why was Davis, a man of capacity and daring, willing to lend himself to the Nazis' schemes? In my opinion, the explanation lies in his background. Briefly, here it is.

Beginning as a train butcher in his native Alabama, Davis, after a series of lightning adventures, became an independent oil operator. He had a driving ambition for power and money. Soon he clashed with the big oil companies.

The big fellows regarded him as an upstart and even a crook. In his turn, Davis became convinced that he was a victim of monopolies. He could tell story after story of how he had been doublecrossed in his dealings with the big companies.

This was a very real feeling with Davis. I believe it spurred him on to deal with Goering and other top Nazis. Those deals began when the First National Bank of Boston allowed Davis to use blocked marks, which the bank had in a German account, to help build a refinery at Hamburg.

Not long afterward, the world oil edifice that Davis had begun to build was smashed by the power of the big combines. It is a story far too complicated to tell here. Involved were certain British companies that went down to ruin, with some of the details of the struggle told in the financial columns of London Times.

From this point on, Davis drew ever closer to the Nazis. He worked in close collaboration with Goering's No. 1 man in the western hemisphere, Joachim Hertslet.

Hertslet, who at 26 looked like a Hollywood version of a Nazi agent, worked with Davis in engineering the deals that made it possible for the Nazis to get oil out of Mexico.

When I saw Davis in the blue-and-gold presidential suite of the Hotel Reforma in Mexico City in 1938, he still talked of the far-reaching international trade he was directing. While he talked, telephone calls came from London, Hamburg and Washington.

In reality he was a ruined man, intriguing with the evil force of Nazism out of the bitterness of his resentment and frustration.

Russia Moving to Control Germany.

THE FORCE of Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov's appeal to the German nation to look to Moscow may seem to be contradicted by his demand for a long occupation and large reparations. But the Soviet policy is shrewdly calculated and there is no contradiction, once we understand that Molotov's immediate object is to create a situation where the Germans will not look to the Western powers and must look to Moscow for the fulfillment of their national ambitions. He has done this on the subject of Germany's frontiers. In the west it is now Russia which is the protector of the territorial unity of the Reich; in the east it is Russia, and Russia alone, which can restore the territorial integrity of the Reich.

LIPPMANN

It is, moreover, Russia which may restore it by doing again what Russia and Germany have done before, what Molotov has done before—namely by making another partition of Poland.

The leverage on the Germans of this sinister masterpiece in diplomacy is bound to be immense.

At the expense of Germany's two hereditary enemies, France and Poland, Molotov has fixed the scene so that the German territorial unity, which all Germans will desire, is entirely dependent on collaboration with Russia.

Reparations Strengthen Hold.

The reparations which Russia is demanding only give added weight to her leverage upon the Germans. No doubt the Russians want and need immediately for their own reconstruction all they can get out of Germany. But this will strengthen and not weaken their political hold upon the German nation.

Russia will be the power that the Germans must look to for relief. Russia will be the power to whom they will be grateful for easing their burdens. Just as they must look to Russia for the return of their lost provinces, so they must look primarily to Russia for their freedom.

The Russians are operating on a very tough principle that the nation which begins by taking the most will then have the most to give up. They know, what we perhaps are too tender-minded to realize, that the Germans will not be thinking sentimentally and gratefully about what we have saved them from having to surrender but concretely about what the Russians can give back to them.

We must remember, too, that in the settlement of a war, the hardest decisions to revise later are boundaries. There is almost never any way of changing a seriously disputed boundary except by force, which includes the partition of a weaker country. But reparations are flexible and easily altered as experience may dictate.

Subject to Change.

Thus the Germans will understand that if and when they really come to terms with Russia large reparations theoretically due in the future can easily be slashed up.

In the meantime, though the reparation payments may be a burden upon the German standard of life, they are also links between the German and the Russian economy.

The more German industrial machinery is installed in Russia, the more will German science, technology and expertness be needed to maintain and repair and replace and improve it.

In my preceding article I said that the proof was complex and cumulative that Molotov's policy was to rally Germany to Moscow and to exclude the Western powers from effective influence in the settlement. We have examined two cardinal elements of the Soviet policy—on territory and on reparations. We must now examine Molotov's political and constitutional plans for Germany.

After a year of discreet silence, in which Secretary of State Byrnes and Gen. McNarney and Gen. Clay have been doing most of the talking for a central administration, Molotov says that "It is becoming particularly urgent as the first step toward the establishment of a future German government."

This announcement is accompanied by contempt to use opposition to what we have begun to do in our zone, and what the British and French — rather belatedly — are now talking about doing in their zones, namely, to reconstruct Germany as a federal union of German states.

Molotov is for a centralized government but without federalism unless by "a plebiscite throughout Germany the German people express their wish to transform Germany into a federal state."

Communist Influence.

Naturally, the Russian political influence inside Germany is exercised through the Communist party which seeks to absorb and dominate the Socialist party and also, let us be sure to realize, through powerful elements of the German army and the old bureaucracy who have nothing material to lose from Communism and everything to gain in power and influence by collaboration with the Red Army and the Soviet state.

The elements upon which the Soviets are counting are disciplined —centrally directed, and strongly nationalist. Federalism is just what suits them least since it decentralizes their power, which is exercised from Berlin, to dominate all parts of Germany.

That is why Molotov is saying just what all the German nationalists of the right and of left wants to hear when he says that there must be no German federalism unless it has first been approved by a plebiscite "throughout Germany." That would be a plebiscite run from Berlin, and such a federalism which decentralized the political power of Berlin.

Byrnes will have to be very careful to distinguish clearly between the central German government which Molotov has suddenly discovered is "urgent" and the central administration which he and Gen. Clay have been asking. A central government which has limited delegated powers from a federation of German states is one thing; a central government, such as Molotov proposes, of a unitary Reich is a totally different thing.

Berlin-Moscow Hook-up.

A federal government, which left the main power of taxation, police, education and civil administration to the separate states would not be easy to dominate from Berlin by a centrally-managed national Communist party directorate. But Molotov's central government is devised so that all of Germany can be dominated from Berlin by a small compact ruling group.

This is the essential condition of an eventual alliance between the rulers in Moscow and the rulers in Berlin.

It has always been difficult to understand why Secretary Byrnes and Gen. Clay, who has been his principal adviser on Germany, have so persistently failed to clarify their position on this fundamental point.

After all, it is Gen. Clay in the American zone who has actually put the principle of federalism to work. Yet in the argument—mainly against the French—about a central administration the principle is never mentioned.

We have never made it clear that what we want is not the central government of a unitary Reich, but a federal government. And so when Molotov comes along with his central government, which is the opposite of what we want, we are in imminent peril of being trapped and beguiled by his ingenious use of our favorite words.

Manners Are Common Sense

By DON SMITH

COLUMBUS—(UP)—If you're a right-hander who's spent years developing a deft right-hand cross to that salad plate on your left forget it.

If you can get your beverage and salad on the right and still lash out at both of them without sending your drink gushing into the host's lap, you've got the problem licked.

This encouraging news for short-armed, comfort-seeking eaters was handed out today by Miss Gladys Branegan, director of home economics at Ohio State university.

You may even go further than that, according to Miss Branegan. You can eat pie alamode with a spoon and if you retain that dainty appearance, you may take chicken and pork chop bones in your hands

However, the authorities still draw the line at stroking towards you as you eat your soup, Miss Branegan said.

"By stroking your soup spoon away from you," she said, "it causes you to eat more deliberately and more slowly and makes for a better appearance."

She also warned that if the toward-you stroke was used too vigorously, the soup would wind up in your lap instead of your month.

Although Miss Branegan said it was alright to eat pie alamode with a spoon and to use your hands in eating chicken and pork chops, she added that such tactics could be avoided by a reliable host or hostess.

If the meat was cooked correctly, there would be no need for hard action, she said. And if the courses were timed in the right manner, there would be no need for a spoon in eating gushing pie and ice cream that was served too soon

"All eating rules today should be governed by common sense," she concluded

Legion Home Is Scene of Meeting

The Legion home was the scene of the meeting last night of the Past President Parlee of the American Legion auxiliary. The group participated in an indoor picnic and social meeting.

A family picnic will be held Aug 18 in the evening at Liberty park. It was also announced that the Newman school sewing circle will meet at 2 30 p. m. on July 31 at Liberty park

Cheerio Club Meets At Pickens Home

Mrs Harold Pickens was hostess to members of the Cheerio club at her home on Wood street yesterday. Two guests Mrs C. C. Gaff and Mrs. Bernard Kinstle, were present, and Mrs. Kinstle was admitted as a new member.

The group played bridge with prizes going to Mrs Jack Barnes and Miss Florence Williams.

The July 31 meeting will be with Miss Williams, 185 West Third street.

Guild Meets at Roberts Home

Members of the Ella Montgomery Guild of the United Presbyterian church of East Mansfield met for a noon luncheon at the home of Mrs Herbert Roberts, on the Mount Zion road.

Mrs. Harry Mizer led the devotions on the "connection between the church and the mission" and also gave a short biography of Mary Reed, a well known missionary.

Winners in the contests played were Mrs. Howard McAllister, Mrs Jay McKinley, Mrs. G. F. Fontaine, and Mrs. Gerald Weaver.

Aug. 20 there will be a picnic at Mount Vernon with Mrs Charles Metcalf in charge.

BLUE STAR MOTHERS HAVE BUSINESS, SOCIAL MEETING

Members of the Blue Star Mothers, Fred C. Harrington chapter No. 4, held a social meeting following a business session at the club rooms Tuesday night.

During the business meeting Mrs Harry Constance reported on the state convention held at Indian Lake, Mich., June 30.

It was announced that Mrs Edna Mae Standing, a past president of the Blue Star Mothers, was ill and in the Mansfield General hospital.

Prizes for games played during the evening were won by Mrs. Charles Jarnan, Mrs. Hobart Adams, Mrs Constance and Mrs. James Wigton.

The next meeting will be July 23 at 6:30 p. m. at North Lake park.

Mme. Epanchin to Address Garden Clubs Tomorrow

Mme. Olga Epanchin of Cleveland, native of Russia and lecturer on Art, history and estates of that country prior to the revolution will be the speaker at the joint meeting of the Mansfield and Johnny Appleseed Garden clubs tomorrow. The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Alan Tappan, Woodland road.

Mme. Epanchin will speak on Gardens and Estates of Old Russia and her talk will be illustrated with pictures of pre-revolution Russian estates.

Mme. Epanchin born on an estate near the Volga river was presented at court prior to her marriage to a colonel in the Imperial Guards. Upon the death of her husband in 1923, she began a career in New York, supporting her son and a number of relatives who had escaped from Russia, with dress and embroidery designing and executive work in fashionable New York stores.

Since her remarriage in 1935 she has resided in Cleveland.

Mansfield Girl Marries L. Foor In Los Angeles

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Klinger, 140 Reba avenue, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Ann Jeanette, to Lawrence Foor of Los Angeles, which took place July 1.

The double ring ceremony which united Miss Klinger and Mr. Foor in marriage was performed in the chapel of the Hollywood First Methodist church. Attending the couple were Miss Kathleen Desmond and William Ake.

Mrs. Foor is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and attended Ohio State university for two years. She has been residing in Los Angeles, Calif., for the past two years. Her husband served three years in the army, most of which was spent in the South Pacific.

The couple is residing at 707 South Norton avenue, Los Angeles

New York Notes

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

TOPS IN TOWN: Evelyn Knight's cute Decca waxing of "Fickle Eye." . . . Barbara Stanwyck's performance in "The Strange Love of Martha Ivers" . . . Those vocals by Nancy Reed with Hal McIntyre's band at Meadowbrook . . . Jacqueline Fontaine, the dancer, at LaConga . . . Joan Edwards' Vogue disc of "Go West Young Man" . . . Margery Sharp's novel "Britannia Mews" . . . The way Andy Russell croons "Pretending" on the Capitol platter.

* * *

Broadway wise money is begging against the Jan Murray-Toni Kelly nuptials, after all that front page fuss. Her real love, they say, is a trombone player . . . It may be a bit out of your way, but Choo Choo Johnson writes the glad in to that there are plenty of apartments vacant in her new home town—Sao Paulo, Brazil . . . Bert Wheeler is rehearsing for "Harvey" with a limp. Bumped his leg against a car and hurt his knee . . . Some of the popular cigaret brands stopped using cellophane wrappings during last week—with no explanation, and no mention of whether or not the change is a permanent one.

* * *

Dancer Beatrice Kraft is now Mrs. Grettir Algarson. The groom is an Arctic explorer, half Irish, half Icelandic . . . Bandleader Sonny Dunham is interrupting his one-nighter tour for a ten-day rest in Texas—on his doctor's ultimatum. He was on the verge of falling apart from making so much money . . . Carnival chorine June Kirby and model agency head David March are swooning . . . Reporters should check Otto Preminger, here in N. Y. for a hot casting story. Isn't Gene Tierney definitely set for "Forever Amber," with Oct. 1 as the film's new starting date? . . . One of the bartenders at the China Doll is actually named Fu Man Chu.

* * *

The lad taking in the Summer barn shows with Libby Holman is her young son . . . Bob Olin, with $1,000,000 in backing, will open restaurants in Miami, Hollywood and Chicago . . . Richard Himber and his gal vocalist held an unloving parting of the ways in front of fascinated witnesses at the Riviera the other evening . . John Perona will be off for Europe in a few days . . . Where-but-in-New-York department: The Campfire Restaurant on W. 56th St., keeps a live deer on the premises as a pet!

* * *

Those old Reno-in-the-beano rumors have cropped up again in the Martha Raye-Nick Condos set. Probably just one of those nice noisy tiffs those lovers love . . . Eileen Dolen and Chicki Winslow, both March models, are two of the many Broadway pretties suffering from nicotine poisoning . . . El Morocco's regulars hear that George Schrafft and his fiancee, Mildred Brown, aren't so positive now . . . The longest sustained scene in film history is the one handled by Joan Crawford in "Humoresque." The star is on the screen alone for twenty minutes . . . Mrs. Andrei Gromyko, wife of the Russian delegate, has dropped 25 pounds on a strenuous diet . . . Death-of-swing note: Roseland Ballroom will soon inaugurate a policy of two waltz contests a week . . . Odd that Kitty Carlisle should have chosen Bucks County as the site of her new Summer home. Fellow named Moss Hart lives in that neighborhood. Hmmm, Kitty?

Washington Letter

—By Jane Eads

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Thousands of children—some as young as six—are following the crops with their migrant parents, toiling long hours and arduously in the fields. They help to harvest beans, cotton, sugar beets, potatoes, prunes.

The conditions under which they work and live are of great concern to the U. S. Children's Bureau and others interested in child welfare.

The work in general is very hard on the children and Miss Ione L. Clinton of the industrial division of the bureau says they almost never get proper lunches and there may be no safe drinking water in the fields.

In addition, the schooling of migrant children is almost sure to be curtailed seriously.

The states that do not have legal standards protecting children from undesirable employment in agriculture will need to start working toward such controls, the Children's Bureau believes.

Children cannot really be protected from employment at harmful work without legislation that prohibits such employment.

There are but two federal acts that apply to employment of children in agriculture and these control it only to a limited extent.

One, the Sugar Act of 1937, provides for payment of full benefits to producers of sugar beets and sugar cane only if they do not employ youngsters under 14 years of age in production, cultivation or harvesting.

The Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 has child-labor provisions administered by the Children's Bureau. These include establishment of a basic minimum of 16 years for children employed in or about establishments producing goods for shipment in interstate and foreign commerce.

This minimum, however, applies to agricultural employment only on the days and during the hours when children are legally required to attend school. And large numbers of child workers legislation because school attendance laws in different states vary on farms do not benefit from this widely in their provisions.

The increase in the agricultural employment of children during the war, says the Children's Bureau, helped to awaken the public to conditions in farm work. It is important, the Bureau insists, that this interest should not be allowed to subside.

* * *

New York state has taken the lead. As a result of agitation in 1945 by the Committee on Migrant Camps of the State's War Council, the state is about to bring forth a comprehensive study of employment, living conditions and earnings of children in agriculture in the state.

In addition, the Consumers Council of New York got out a book called "The Joads of New York." This caused quite a stir because conditions in New York, which has about the best labor laws in the country, were found to be as bad in spots, as any in the Steinbeck book.

The state also has a labor law which now requires labor contractors bringing migrant workers from outside of New York to submit to the State Industrial Commission ahead of time whatever information the commissioner prescribes—wages, housing and working conditions.

A copy of this information must be given to each worker before he goes on the job. A copy also must be given to each worker before he goes on the job. A copy also must be posted in the migrant camp.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, July 19.

SHREWD and concentrated effort, based on sound and fundamental analysis of difficult and static situations, should result in a most decisive and tangible move toward accelerating lagging or blocked affairs or operations. A concentrated and well-organized attempt to reach worthwhile goals should break down stubborn obstacles or crystallizations.

Those in high places may be found co-operative where merit and worth are demonstrated. Move diligently toward safe and enduring objectives.

Those whose birthday it is may have the opportunity to place static, blocked and difficult situations on a sound basis of far-reaching and enduring prospect for long-range benefits and security.

Merit, sound objectives and a high sense of duty and obligation should attract the attention and enlist concrete suport of those in powerful and stable positions Seek these by constructive plans

A child born on this day will be endowed with sterling traits of character and high purpose, winning the hearty recognition of influential personages.

July is the best month for lifting, dividing and replanting pumila and tall-bearded iris. In the process, keep an eye out for borers and dig them out of the rhizomes if they are present.

Relax Often To Enjoy Summer

Throughout each long winter we long for the bright, sunny days and the warmth of the summer season. Then, with the arrival at long last of the time we've awaited, we find all too often that we grow tired and permit our fatigue to show up in irritability and bad temper.

Summer fatigue afflicts children and adults alike, and it seems particularly unfortunate that so many of us fail to learn the simplest way to overcome it so that we may enjoy the season of warmth and restore our energies for the cold winter that must inevitably follow.

The remedy for this condition is easy—just relax. Realize that in humid weather when the thermometer registers above ninety and creeps upward steadily it is not possible to accomplish as much of work or pleasure as on more temperate days. Periods of exertion must be short, interspersed with periods of relaxation. This is true whether one is at work in an office or plant or indulging in an afternoon of golf. Efficiency can be maintained at a fairly high level only by maintaining energy at a comparable level.

The physical demands of hot temperatures are well known. Nearly all industries now insist that employees take a number of salt tablets daily to ward off heat exhaustion.

Physicians advise frequent rest periods involving complete relaxation and a cooling beverage, preferably one made of citrus juices and some sugar to replenish lost energy.

Following this simple and thoroughly pleasant routine will make this the most pleasant summer you've ever known But remember to make each period of relaxation a complete rest.

Make Up In Dual Role

Bottled leg make-up, which supplies countless pairs of run-proof 'hose,' also doubles as a skin protector for those who want to look tan without getting sunburned. Beauteous Jane Harker, of the films, illustrates the orthodox way of using the leg liquid (above) She is applying the bottled make-up with a moistened sponge, starting at the toes and exerting even pressure to obtain a smooth unstreaked effect on her legs. Fair-skinned film actress Mary Anderson (below) shows how she avoids getting sunburned yet manages to appear at the beach with a handsome, readymade tan. She uses the waterproof leg make-up on all exposed areas to shield her skin from the sun.

Your Figure, Madame

—By Ida Jean Kain

It's not easy to keep your chin up if you work from nine to five. It's all very well for models where work requires that they keep beautifully poised. But what about the rest of us who must type and toil, take dictation and read or write copy? How are we to hang on to a youthful throatline?

Perhaps you think a chin strap would do the trick. If it were possible for you to sit in the office with your chin snugly tied up, you think you could keep a young and lovely throatline indefinitely. It wouldn't work. Eventually it would make it worse by taking the work away from the throat muscles.

It's tipping the head forward that fosters double chins and scraggly throatlines. So the stenographers and typists who use their heads, use a rack to prop up notebooks and copy so they do not have to tuck the chin under. In reading, knitting, or working, the beauty trick is to hold the book, the knitting or the work up, instead of tilting the head down. You can't hold the typewriter up, so the rack helps solve the problem. In bending forward to work, bend from the hips, not at the waist and not by collapsing through the shoulders. Try to keep your chin as level as possible. At first this may seem stiff and tiring. Try it for one work week and you will find it more comfortable and actually less tiring.

Counteractive exercises help too. This doesn't mean you have to make a career of chin exercises. That would be a bore. But just a couple a day work wonders. Exercise helps to keep the muscles underlying the skin in good tone. When these supporting muscles are well toned, they support the skin more fully and this discourages chin creases and double chins.

The best exercises for working girls are those that help to counteract forward bending The easiest exercise is before you get out of bed in the morning Push the pillow down under your shoulder blades and let your head tip back until the back of your head touches the bed, then come up to chin level, slowly using chin muscles, and lower again, three times. About sleeping on a pillow, many a beauty writer bans pillows, perhaps all the while slumbering peacefully on a downy pillow herself. If you can sleep better with a pillow, use one, but a soft one that does not prop your head up.

Another good habit forming exercise is to hang your head over the edge of the bed and let it hang limply, then using throat muscles come up to chin level, and to add an extra rub thrust your jaw out and close your mouth firmly. That helps to erase those "breaks" lines that come from tilting the head down.

It all takes less than a minute, less time than it takes to write it, really. And it works wonders on the chinline.

CLOTHS FOR POLISHING

A dustless duster is something to help the homemaker with her daily cleaning chores. Pour into a glass jar two tablespoons of furniture polish or liquid wax. Swash it around until the entire inside of the jar is coated. Then pour out any excess liquid. Put a piece of soft cloth or chamois in the jar and let it stand there for a day or two. The cloth will soak up the polish evenly. When the cloth becomes soiled from using, wash it out and repeat the process.

STORING CHERRIES

Use cherries as soon as possible after purchase. Meanwhile, keep them in a cool dry place. Moisture and heat lead to rapid spoilage. If you wash them before they are ready to use, drain and dry them thoroughly, then spread in shallow pan and keep in the refrigerator.

Manners Are Common Sense

By DON SMITH

COLUMBUS—(AP)—If you're a right-hander who's spent years developing a deft right-hand cross to that salad plate on your left, forget it

If you can get your beverage and salad on the right and still lash out at both of them without sending your drink gushing into the host's lap, you've got the problem licked.

This encouraging news for short-armed, comfort-seeking eaters was handed out today by Miss Gladys Branegan, director of home economics at Ohio State university.

You may even go further than that, according to Miss Branegan. You can eat pie alamode with a spoon and if you retain that dainty appearance, you may take chicken and pork chop bones in your hands.

However, the authorities still draw the line at stroking towards you as you eat your soup, Miss Branegan said.

"By stroking your soup spoon away from you," she said, "it causes you to eat more deliberately and more slowly and makes for a better appearance."

She also warned that if the toward-you stroke was used too vigorously, the soup would wind up in your lap instead of your month.

Although Miss Branegan said it was alright to eat pie alamode with a spoon and to use your hands in eating chicken and pork chops, she added that such tactics could be avoided by a reliable host or hostess.

If the meat was cooked correctly, there would be no need for hand action, she said And if the courses were timed in the right manner, there would be no need for a spoon in eating gushing pie and ice cream that was served too soon

"All eating rules today should be governed by common sense," she concluded

Club Has Picnic At Miller Home

The Jolly Makers club met Wednesday evening with husbands of the members as guests The group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs Dorsey Miller, Shelby, R D 1, for a picnic supper.

After a short business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Carl Boyd, outdoor games were played with prizes won by Mrs. Peter Thoma, Murray Fisher, Mrs Carl Boyd and Leo Keffalas

The next meeting will be held on Aug 7 at the roadside park on Wooster road and will be a wiener roast with Mr. and Mrs Murray Fisher in charge of arrangements.

Sixty Present at Mothers Club Picnic In Park

Sixty mothers and children attended a picnic Wednesday sponsored by the Newman School Mothers club, which was held at Liberty park.

Novel contests were held and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Vinton Childs, Mrs. Harry Adams and Mrs. Frederick Bogner, and to 12 children.

Mrs. William Halvax was chairman of the committee for the party while hostesses were Mrs. Philip Lodge and Mrs. Walter McEvoy. A birthday cake, honoring the birthday of Mrs. Evelyn Mayer, centered the table.

A family picnic will be held Aug. 18 in the evening at Liberty park It was also announced that the Newman school sewing circle will meet at 2.30 p m. on July 31 at Liberty park

Cheerio Club Meets At Pickens Home

Mrs Harold Pickens was hostess to members of the Cheerio club at her home on Wood street yesterday. Two guests, Mrs C. C. Gaff and Mrs. Bernard Kinstle, were present, and Mrs. Kinstle was admitted as a new member

The group played bridge with prizes going to Mrs Jack Barnes and Miss Florence Williams.

The July 31 meeting will be with Miss Williams, 185 West Third street.

Guild Meets at Roberts Home

Members of the Ella Montgomery Guild of the United Presbyterian church of East Mansfield met for a noon luncheon at the home of Mrs Herbert Roberts, on the Mount Zion road.

Mrs. Harry Mizer led the devotions on the "connection between the church and the mission" and also gave a short biography of Mary Reed, a well known missionary.

Winners in the contests played were Mrs Howard McAllister, Mrs Jay McKinley, Mrs G. F. Fontaine, and Mrs. Gerald Weaver

Aug. 20 there will be a picnic at Mount Vernon with Mrs Charles Metcalf in charge.

New York Notes

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

TOPS IN TOWN: Evelyn Knight's cute Decca waxing of "Fickle Eye." . . . Barbara Stanwyck's performance in "The Strange Love of Martha Ivers" . . . Those vocals by Nancy Reed with Hal McIntyre's band at Meadowbrook . . . Jacqueline Fontaine, the dancer, at LaConga . . . Joan Edwards' Vogue disc of "Go West Young Man" . . . Margery Sharp's novel "Britannia Mews" . . . The way Andy Russell croons "Pretending" on the Capitol platter.

* * *

Broadway wise money is begging against the Jan Murray-Toni Kelly nuptials, after all that front page fuss. Her real love, they say, is a trombone player . . . It may be a bit out of your way, but Choo Choo Johnson writes the glad in to that there are plenty of apartments vacant in her new home town—Sao Paulo, Brazil . . . Bert Wheeler is rehearsing for "Harvey" with a limp. Bumped his leg against a car and hurt his knee . . . Some of the popular cigaret brands stopped using cellophane wrappings during last week—with no explanation, and no mention of whether or not the change is a permanent one.

* * *

Dancer Beatrice Kraft is now Mrs. Grettir Algarson. The groom is an Arctic explorer, half Irish, half Icelandic . . . Bandleader Sonny Dunham is interrupting his one-nighter tour for a ten-day rest in Texas—on his doctor's ultimatum. He was on the verge of falling apart from making so much money . . . Carnival chorine June Kirby and model agency head David March are swooning . . . Reporters should check Otto Preminger, here in N. Y. for a hot casting story. Isn't Gene Tierney definitely set for "Forever Amber," with Oct. 1 as the film's new starting date? . . . One of the bartenders at the China Doll is actually named Fu Man Chu.

* * *

The lad taking in the Summer barn shows with Libby Holman is her young son . . . Bob Olin, with $1,000,000 in backing, will open restaurants in Miami, Hollywood and Chicago . . . Richard Himber and his gal vocalist held an unloving parting of the ways in front of fascinated witnesses at the Riviera the other evening . . John Perona will be off for Europe in a few days . . . Where-but-in-New-York department: The Campfire Restaurant on W. 56th St., keeps a live deer on the premises as a pet!

* * *

Those old Reno-in-the-beano rumors have cropped up again in the Martha Raye-Nick Condos set. Probably just one of those nice noisy tiffs those lovers love . . . Eileen Dolen and Chicki Winslow, both March models, are two of the many Broadway pretties suffering from nicotine poisoning . . . El Morocco's regulars hear that George Schrafft and his fiancee, Mildred Brown, aren't so positive now . . . The longest sustained scene in film history is the one handled by Joan Crawford in "Humoresque." The star is on the screen alone for twenty minutes . . . Mrs. Andrei Gromyko, wife of the Russian delegate, has dropped 25 pounds on a strenuous diet . . . Death-of-swing note: Roseland Ballroom will soon inaugurate a policy of two waltz contests a week . . . Odd that Kitty Carlisle should have chosen Bucks County as the site of her new Summer home. Fellow named Moss Hart lives in that neighborhood. Hmmm, Kitty?

Washington Letter

—By Jane Eads

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Thousands of children—some as young as six—are following the crops with their migrant parents, toiling long hours and arduously in the fields. They help to harvest beans, cotton, sugar beets, potatoes, prunes.

The conditions under which they work and live are of great concern to the U. S. Children's Bureau and others interested in child welfare.

The work in general is very hard on the children and Miss Ione L. Clinton of the industrial division of the bureau says they almost never get proper lunches and there may be no safe drinking water in the fields.

In addition, the schooling of migrant children is almost sure to be curtailed seriously.

The states that do not have legal standards protecting children from undesirable employment in agriculture will need to start working toward such controls, the Children's Bureau believes.

Children cannot really be protected from employment at harmful work without legislation that prohibits such employment.

There are but two federal acts that apply to employment of children in agriculture and these control it only to a limited extent.

One, the Sugar Act of 1937, provides for payment of full benefits to producers of sugar beets and sugar cane only if they do not employ youngsters under 14 years of age in production, cultivation or harvesting.

The Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 has child-labor provisions administered by the Children's Bureau. These include establishment of a basic minimum of 16 years for children employed in or about establishments producing goods for shipment in interstate and foreign commerce.

This minimum, however, applies to agricultural employment only on the days and during the hours when children are legally required to attend school. And large numbers of child workers legislation because school attendance laws in different states vary on farms do not benefit from this widely in their provisions.

The increase in the agricultural employment of children during the war, says the Children's Bureau, helped to awaken the public to conditions in farm work. It is important, the Bureau insists, that this interest should not be allowed to subside.

* * *

New York state has taken the lead. As a result of agitation in 1945 by the Committee on Migrant Camps of the State's War Council, the state is about to bring forth a comprehensive study of employment, living conditions and earnings of children in agriculture in the state.

In addition, the Consumers Council of New York got out a book called "The Joads of New York." This caused quite a stir because conditions in New York, which has about the best labor laws in the country, were found to be as bad in spots, as any in the Steinbeck book.

The state also has a labor law which now requires labor contractors bringing migrant workers from outside of New York to submit to the State Industrial Commission ahead of time whatever information the commissioner prescribes—wages, housing and working conditions.

A copy of this information must be given to each worker before he goes on the job. A copy also must be given to each worker before he goes on the job. A copy also must be posted in the migrant camp.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, July 19.

SHREWD and concentrated effort, based on sound and fundamental analysis of difficult and static situations, should result in a most decisive and tangible move toward accelerating lagging or blocked affairs or operations. A concentrated and well-organized attempt to reach worthwhile goals should break down stubborn obstacles or crystallizations.

Those in high places may be found co-operative where merit and worth are demonstrated. Move diligently toward safe and enduring objectives.

Those whose birthday it is may have the opportunity to place static, blocked and difficult situations on a sound basis of far-reaching and enduring prospect for long-range benefits and security.

Merit, sound objectives and a high sense of duty and obligation should attract the attention and enlist concrete suport of those in powerful and stable positions. Seek these by constructive plans.

A child born on this day will be endowed with sterling traits of character and high purpose, winning the hearty recognition of influential personages.

July is the best month for lifting, dividing and replanting pumila and tall-bearded iris. In the process, keep an eye out for borers and dig them out of the rhizomes if they are present.

Relax Often To Enjoy Summer

Throughout each long winter we long for the bright, sunny days and the warmth of the summer season. Then, with the arrival at long last of the time we've awaited, we find all too often that we grow tired and permit our fatigue to show up in irritability and bad temper.

Summer fatigue afflicts children and adults alike, and it seems particularly unfortunate that so many of us fail to learn the simplest way to overcome it so that we may enjoy the season of warmth and restore our energies for the cold winter that must inevitably follow.

The remedy for this condition is easy—just relax. Realize that in humid weather when the thermometer registers above ninety and creeps upward steadily it is not possible to accomplish as much of work or pleasure as on more temperate days. Periods of exertion must be short, interspersed with periods of relaxation. This is true whether one is at work in an office or plant or indulging in an afternoon of golf. Efficiency can be maintained at a fairly high level only by maintaining energy at a comparable level.

The physical demands of hot temperatures are well known. Nearly all industries now insist that employees take a number of salt tablets daily to ward off heat exhaustion.

Physicians advise frequent rest periods involving complete relaxation and a cooling beverage, preferably one made of citrus juices and some sugar to replenish lost energy.

Following this simple and thoroughly pleasant routine will make this the most pleasant summer you've ever known. But remember to make each period of relaxation a complete rest.

Make Up In Dual Role

Bottled leg make-up, which supplies countless pairs of run-proof 'hose,' also doubles as a skin protector for those who want to look tan without getting sunburned. Beauteous Jane Marker, of the films, illustrates the orthodox way of using the leg liquid (above). She is applying the bottled make-up with a moistened sponge, starting at the toes and exerting even pressure to obtain a smooth unstreaked effect on her legs. Fair-skinned film actress Mary Anderson (below) shows how she avoids getting sunburned yet manages to appear at the beach with a handsome, readymade tan. She uses the waterproof leg make-up on all exposed areas to shield her skin from the sun.

Your Figure, Madame

—By Ida Jean Kain

It's not easy to keep your chin up if you work from nine to five. It's all very well for models where work requires that they keep beautifully poised. But what about the rest of us who must type and toil, take dictation and read or write copy? How are we to hang on to a youthful throatline?

Perhaps you think a chin strap would do the trick. If it were possible for you to sit in the office with your chin snugly tied up, you think you could keep a young and lovely throatline indefinitely. It wouldn't work. Eventually it would make it worse by taking the work away from the throat muscles.

It's tipping the head forward that fosters double chins and scraggly throatlines. So the stenographers and typists who use their heads, use a rack to prop up notebooks and copy so they do not have to tuck the chin under. In reading, knitting, or working, the beauty trick is to hold the book, the knitting or the work up, instead of tilting the head down. You can't hold the typewriter up, so the rack helps solve the problem. In bending forward to work, bend from the hips, not at the waist and not by collapsing through the shoulders. Try to keep your chin as level as possible. At first this may seem stiff and tiring. Try it for one work week and you will find it more comfortable and actually less tiring.

Counteractive exercises help too. This doesn't mean you have to make a career of chin exercises. That would be a bore. But just a couple a day work wonders. Exercise helps to keep the muscles underlying the skin in good tone. When these supporting muscles are well toned, they support the skin more fully and this discourages chin creases and double chins.

The best exercises for working girls are those that help to counteract forward bending. The easiest exercise is before you get out of bed in the morning. Push the pillow down under your shoulder blades and let your head tip back until the back of your head touches the bed, then come up to chin level, slowly using chin muscles, and lower again, three times. About sleeping on a pillow, many a beauty writer bans pillows, perhaps all the while slumbering peacefully on a downy pillow herself. If you can sleep better with a pillow, use one, but a soft one that does not prop your head up.

Another good habit forming exercise is to hang your head over the edge of the bed and let it hang limply, then using throat muscles come up to chin level, and to add an extra rub thrust your jaw out and close your mouth firmly. That helps to erase those "breaks" lines that come from tilting the head down.

It all takes less than a minute, less time than it takes to write it, really. And it works wonders on the chinline.

CLOTHS FOR POLISHING

A dustless duster is something to help the homemaker with her daily cleaning chores. Pour into a glass jar two tablespoons of furniture polish or liquid wax. Swash it around until the entire inside of the jar is coated. Then pour out any excess liquid. Put a piece of soft cloth or chamois in the jar and let it stand there for a day or two. The cloth will soak up the polish evenly. When the cloth becomes soiled from using, wash it out and repeat the process.

STORING CHERRIES

Use cherries as soon as possible after purchase. Meanwhile, keep them in a cool dry place. Moisture and heat lead to rapid spoilage. If you wash them before they are ready to use, drain and dry them thoroughly, then spread in shallow pan and keep in the refrigerator.

SHELBY COUNCIL TO INVESTIGATE WATER WORKS

Charge Supt. J. P. Adkins With Failure to Inspect Plant Operations Regularly.

SHELBY—City council plans to make a tour of the municipal waterworks Saturday to find out for themselves whether the plant has been operated satisfactorily or not

Charging that Supt J P Adkins, utilities superintendent, failed to inspect the plant's operations personally for several weeks at a time, the council this week recommended to Mayor Frank Long that the water company be placed under separate supervision

At present, Adkins is superintendent of the water company and municipal light company at a monthly salary of $383 84 Of this amount, the light plant pays $333 33 per month and the water company $50.

Several councilmen have stated that new filters are needed at the plant to correct what they termed as unpalatable water being pumped into the city mains used by the public for drinking

Criticism was aimed at Supt Adkins by city councilmen when erosion started washing away the retaining wall near the city's dam on the Black Fork and the banks of the city reservoir from which the city gets its drinking water.

Outspoken toward getting "better service and water" from the water company has been First Ward Councilman Jim Herlihy Councilmen Ross Sipes, Ross Bringman, E E Eckert and Bill Cook have also voiced their opinions that the operation of the water company has not been satisfactory with Adkins serving as the superintendent of both municipally owned companies

No action is expected to be taken by city officials on splitting the superintendency of the two companies until after Mayor Long returns from his vacation Friday

Ashland Tire Dealer Retires This Week

ASHLAND—Charles C Burris who estimates he's changed more than 45 000 tires in his 28 years as a partner in the Burris and Fasig tire store here is retiring this week to devote full time to his first love, harness racing

"Auto races are dull compared to horse races" says Mr Burris Director of the Ashland county fair board, he plans to open a racing stable He previously had owned a stable but sold it

Mr Burris originally planned to quit the tire business last week but he remained a few additional days to enable an employe to take a vacation.

"I couldn t let my partner down when he needs me," Mr Burris said

Street Repair Won't Interfere With Shelby Fair, State Says

SHELBY—The state highway department today had given verbal assurance that the resurfacing of Main street would not interfere with the Shelby street fair to be sponsored by the Shelby Junior Chamber of Commerce

John Russell and James Shepherd, of the Jaycee committee, met with H. F Gerold, of Ashland, division highway engineer, to determine whether there would be a conflict between the state working on the resurfacing and the street fair.

After a telephone conversation to Columbus by Mr Gerold with the state headquarters there, the office gave assurance that every effort would be made to avoid any conflict with the fair. The street job has not been advertised as yet by the state and no date has been definitely set The state and the city divide the cost of the street resurfacing job equally

A contract has been signed for the concessions with a representative of the Gooding Shows

As yet the prize lists have not been drawn up but in the past $300 was set aside by the Better Business club for awards and the same amount is expected to be set up this year by the committee No state aid is available for the fair

Businesses industries and the granges as well as individuals will be invited to enter exhibits

Social Security Payments Double, Hit $52,000 Monthly

Benefits paid by the Mansfield Security office have almost doubled within the past 18 months

Edward P. Blonston, manager of the office which serves five counties, said today that 2,596 persons are currently receiving benefits at the rate of $52,564 64 per month as compared with the 1,611 people drawing $29,200 from Social Security at the beginning of 1945.

These payments replace in part those wages which a worker loses when he is compelled to retire due to old age, and also assist his dependents.

In Richland county alone, $26,060.30 per month is being paid to some 1,460 persons—543 retired workers, 216 wives of retired workers, 442 children of deceased and retired workers, and 259 workers' widows.

Lump-sum payments made payable during the quarter ending June 30, 1946 totaled $16,103.36. In certain cases widows who received a lump-sum payment at the time the worker died, will receive a monthly benefit at age 65.

In explaining the regulations, Blonston pointed out that whenever a person who has worked at anytime in a job covered by the law, reaches age 65 he should go to the Social Security Board and find out how to protect his rights, even though he does not plan to retire at the present time.

When a worker dies, a member of his family or a friend should communicate promptly with the nearest Social Security office. This is the only way to make sure no benefits are lost.

Army Life Soft For Tree Experts

STAMFORD, Conn. — (CP) — "Physically the army wasn't so tough," is the phrase most often used by ex-GIs returning to their old jobs as tree experts, according to George M. Codding, vice president of the Bartlett Tree Expert company. "That's because a tree expert must always be in tiptop physical condition," he explained.

The services kept the men in the best physical condition for battle, Codding said, "but many of our regular 274 tree experts back from the war have found they had to strengthen certain muscles before they were adept in tree work again. After a few weeks on the job, they are again in physical stride."

The Oklahoma A. and M. college alumni association was organized in 1897 with six members.

Junior Red Cross Praised For Varied Work During Year

Work accomplished by the Junior American Red Cross during the past year was praised today in a monthly report by the Richland county chapter citing production and participation of the juniors in Red Cross activities during the past school year.

A complete Christmas unit including 1,000 Christmas cards, 500 tray favors and 500 tree ornaments was made in the schools.

A total of 3,200 favors were made for hospitals, along with 400 tray covers, while 677 educational boxes were made and shipped overseas and 1,000 menu covers were made for the navy.

Juniors in the public schools also made and shipped 60 stuffed toy animals, 12 aprons to the county home, and collected Easter eggs and fruit for the Children's home.

Some 157 students completed first aid courses in six schools, and 25 successfully passed water safety and home nursing courses.

Juniors were also active in helping with various other Red Cross activities, mimeographing and assembling 150 disaster manuals, delivering posters during the campaign fund, and distributing check lists in the recent famine emergency campaign.

During the past year, pupils contributed $1,569.66 to the Red Cross, while $1,113.01 was sent to the National Children's fund to be used for work with children in war wrecked countries.

In addition to these projects, the committee on purchase of spectacles bought 40 pairs of glasses for children where the family was unable to meet the expense, and repaired or replaced two pairs.

WILL ELECT

Amvets Plan Installation Ceremony Friday Night.

Nomination, election, and installation of permanent officers is scheduled to highlight a meeting of all Mansfield Amvets (American Veterans of World War II) at 8 p. m. tomorrow in Memorial building.

Miss Virginia Chafee, state fourth vice commander of Dayton, will install the newly-elected officers at the close of the business meeting prior to a buffet lunch to be served after the elections.

Elden Becker, temporary commander of the organization said today that the local charter issued April 19 will be officially closed during the meeting, and that all members enrolled prior to Friday night will be considered members.

Warns Hoarders They'll Be Sorry

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Nylon hoarders—the gals who have 15 to 20 pairs of the precious item tucked away in bureau drawers—will have their regrets before long, says Miss Edna Gray, University of Illinois clothing specialist.

She bases her prediction on the fact that a supply of that size should last a woman three or four years, and that nylon improvements are in the offing which will be reflected in the hose sold over the counter long before that time. Many changes are ahead, Miss Gray says. Among them she lists finer yarns, finer gauge, better fit, with proportioned sizes and dyes that are more colorfast.

ENGINE BREAKS LOOSE

BEND, Ore.—(AP)—A runaway locomotive scattered a servicing crew, crashed into a roundhouse and went out the opposite end here recently when a defective throttle set the engine in motion.

Evictions Head Toward Record In July

MANSFIELD NEWS-JOURNAL
THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1946 TELEPHONE 4251-6 PAGE THIRTEEN

Walter Winchell . . .

The peculiar deals involving Congressional war profiteering revive similar shenanigans by legislators in the past. About a century ago a group of businessmen borrowed $200,000, and incorporated the Central Pacific Railroad. Then they used the 200Gs to bribe Congressmen to steal roalroad franchises. The 200Gs eventually secured land grants for nine million acres and a Federal loan of $27,000,000!

The swindlers became rich and powerful railroad owners without investing a penny of their own money!

The Tweed Ring was the most corrupt gang that ever afflicted New York. Boss Tweed filched millions via bribery and legalistic hocus-pocus—until he was finally put behind bars. But Tweed beat the rap many times. After one Grand Jury failed to dig up enough evidence to indict Tweed, an editorialist wrote that it reminded him of the man who had been discovered dead and the jury were puzzled as to what caused his death.

The jury finally issued this report: "It was an act of God under very suspicious circumstances."

Capitol Hill is now burdened with too many demagogues. But the current batch aren't gifted with Huey Long's evil talent. He was a wily rat . . . A reporter once saw a page from a Huey Long address. Various instructions were penciled in the margins. Such as "pause here," and "use angry fist gesture," etc.

At the end of one long paragraph, the following was scribbled in capital letters: "Argument weak here. Yell like hell!"

During the Teapot Dome probe a politico mixed up in the mess was asked: "Did you ever steal an election?"

"Oh, no!" was the straight-faced retort. "I paid for it!"

* * *

...Sam Insull erected his financial empire by bribing legislators via huge campaign contributions. He could make and break politicians with his checkbook. Insull once boasted that a politico in Chicago offered to sell his entire organization to him for a million dollars.

* * *

The most revealing history of political corruption in America can be found in Reporter Lincoln Steffens' tomes. His expozays sent many grafters to the hoosegow or into oblivion. He once turned out a three volume history of political film-flamming in one city and then complained: "I lacked enough space to put all the incidents of nefarious political activities into those books."

The Senate is reluctant to take action against Bilbo's alleged illegal election methods. But the history of Congress shows that there have been spunky legislators who came out swinging against colleagues under fire. After the N. Y. Times exposed a land grab deal several decades ago it resulted in the expulsion of four Congressmen.

* * *

Percy Quin is another Mississippi rabble-rouser who burdened Congress in the 1920's. It was Quin who first uttered the cynical remark: "There comes a time in the life of every Congressman when he must rise above principles."

Mark Twain used his pungent pen to attack the shady schemes of Tammany. The death of a Tammany leader inspired one of Twain's famed quips: "I refused to attend his funeral. But I wrote a very nice letter explaining that I approved of it!"

George M. Robeson (Grant's Secy of the Navy) was taken into partnership with a firm selling inferior supplies to the Navy.

In his 8 years as secretary of the Navy - Robeson banked $320,000.

An Atlantic City political boss once ruled that town like a dictator. He ended up in a Federal prison after fleecing citizens of millions. At one time he was so powerful and arrogant—he had himself photographed with Al Capone and sent the photo to newspapers!

Congressmen who say that Bilbo is a thorn in the side (but there's nothing they can do about it) should read the Constitution of the United States, which they are supposed to know so well . . . Article 1, section 5, paragraph 2 reads: "Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and with the concurrence of two-thirds of the membership—EXPEL A MEMBER."

Westbrook Pegler . . .

NEW YORK—Some of Sidney Hillman's personal and political friends in their eulogies have spoken of his long and devoted labors for American ideals.

I always thought his ideals were European and his program one of creeping totalitarianism and though I respected him as a clever, able and persuasive man, I think the damage he did in substituting European concepts for American outweighs the material benefits that he won for his clothing workers and some others.

We needn't go into the question of the closed shop because if we did we would stall right there, its advocates and opponents being immovable and all the arguments having been exhausted long ago.

But Mr. Hillman, in 1943, proposed something that seems to me to have been right out of the books of Mussolini and Hitler when he asked that all the unions in the state of New York affiliate with the so-called American Labor party, then, as now, the temporary abode of the communist movement, and pay into the party treasury a per capita tax on all their members. That meant, and Sidney Hillman intended it to mean, that all the workers in the state who are union members whether by choice or by force, and may be Republicans or Democrats, would have been compelled to pay tribute to his own political party.

We may have had isolated precedents for this idea in rotten localities in times past, as where employers warned the workers that if they did not vote thus and so the works would close down and they would be out of work. But I know of no true parallel and I think the proposition was violently un-American. I say that if you compel an American citizen to contribute to a political party and threaten to suspend him from his union and lay him off the job for refusing to contribute you are violating his political rights in the meanest way by threatening his family with poverty.

The failure of this proposal was due to political rivalry between Hillman and the other union bosses. The fact that the others did not denounce it on principle but ditched it only because it would have magnified Hillman's great power, shows how far this leadership has travelled back toward continental Europe. British law, the source of ours and in many respects superior, explicitly forbids compulsion in the collection of such contributions on the very ground that it would force some voters to give financial support to candidates and proposals abhorrent to them and thus impair their citizenship.

Back in 1940, Hillman's office sent circulars to the members which were nothing but campaign literature for President Roosevelt.

"We are mobilized in a crusade to re-elect our great president," it said. "Let there be no slackers in our midst."

Well, now, who said all the members were "mobilized in a crusade" and so forth and who gave anybody the right to call an American citizen a slacker, which is a dirty word and deliberately selected, just because he intended to exercise his political right to vote for Wendell Willkie? Probably most of the members were Roosevelt voters but this official writ from headquarters stigmatized all others.

So, of that piece of business I say that here again Sidney Hillman revealed that, although he had lived long and had prospered in the United States, he was still haunted by the mental political habits and superstitions that he formed in Lithuania.

Mr. Hillman carried the same European psychology and political ethics into his Political Action committee and men found themselves down for a dollar assessment for the fourth term campaign who deeply believed Roosevelt should not be re-elected.

I didn't hate Hillman. May he rest in peace, but I did detest his principles or lack of principles which permitted him to thrust these foreign political novelties upon us in the mocking guise of "liberalism," "progress," "freedom" and "democracy." And I take my stand that those who now say he was a man of high American ideals are so far corrupted themselves, and probably sincerely, that they just aren't qualified to discuss American ideals at all.

Hal Boyle . . .

By HANS DE WATTEVILLE
(For Hal Boyle)

SION, Switzerland — (AP) — For the farmers living far up in the isolated valleys of the Valais Canton in southwestern Switzerland, their annual cow fights are no less thrilling than a heavyweight championship boxing bout to citizens of the U. S.

Toward the end of June herds of the stocky, combative brown and black cattle known here as the "herence" breed are driven to high pastures just beneath the glaciers and snow covered tops of the Alps to spend the summer.

On the same day approximately 200 cows, chosen from the different stables, are assembled on the grazing ground to determine a queen which will become the acknowledged summer leader of the combined herds.

* * *

It is a great honor as well as financially interesting for a farmer to own a queen cow. Rivalries are sharp and often the excitable temper of the Valaisans, noted all over Switzerland, flares in heated argument, sometimes culminating in violent fistic encounters and life-long family feuds.

* * *

The cow fights start early in the morning. The animals are herded together in as level a field as can be found in this rugged country. Their horns have been blunted and sharp tips removed. The air is filled with lowing and bawling and the tinkle of hundreds of cow bells.

The cows, sensing the coming fight, dig the earth with their horns, stamping and pawing with their forelegs and throwing up clods of dirt. The strongest plunge into the fray, each instinctively choosing a cow of about the same weight. Cannily, they shun cows who defeated them in previous years. The cowherds separate the animals if more than two become involved in a struggle.

The clashes are short but violent. Two cows will maneuver with lowered heads for a good attacking position, then hurl themselves against each other, locking horns and straining with the whole weight of their muscular bodies until one yields to superior strength. The queen cow always is the strongest and heaviest of the lot. If two cows are evenly matched in power the victory goes to the one with the most fighting spirit.

Despite frequent deep head wounds and the occasional loss of a horn, the cows never are really seriously injured.

PUSH DRIVE FOR RICHLAND CANCER CLINIC

Medical Society to Be Asked For Formal Approval of Plans.

Plans for a Richland County Cancer society moved forward today as Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, revealed next steps to be taken to assure the establishment of such a society in the county.

With a $2,500 fund already available to launch a cancer clinic here, Dr. Wild said that formal approval of the proposed society by the county medical society is being sought before a county executive group and chairman is appointed.

He said that Dr. Robert L. Garber, of the county medical society, will present the tentative plans to the society sometime late this month.

"Following the medical society's approval we can then name an executive group and chairman and contact state and national cancer groups to determine whether or not we can link our activities with theirs," Dr. Wild said.

Dr. Wild said that probably 15 or so prominent county residents will be named to the executive board and one other selected for chairman.

After the board and chairman have been named the society can then begin to arrange for a clinic room at the General hospital and for a physician to conduct the examinations, the commissioner said.

Outline of the steps to be taken for the establishment of a cancer society in the county have been discussed, with Mrs. Marguerite Tremaine, chairman of the state cancer society, and Dr. Roger E. Heering, director of the state department of health, Dr. Wild said.

DEGNAN CASE NEAR CLIMAX

Chicago Sources Say Youth Will 'Sing' to Save Self From Chair.

CHICAGO — (AP) — The seven months investigation of the kidnap-killing of Suzanne Degnan, which for the last three weeks has centered on William Heirens, appeared nearing a climax today as reports persisted that the young college student was to make a formal written confession of the crime.

The five major Chicago newspapers have published reports that the confession is the next step, in a reported understanding between defense and prosecuting attorneys, with the state to recommend a life sentence instead of the death penalty.

State's Attorney William A. Tuohy and counsel for Heirens have reiterated that the youth has not yet made a confession. The Chicago newspapers have reported Heirens had "talked," and orally admitted the kidnap-killing of the six-year-old Degnan child and two other slayings. Some of the reports said the youth made the disclosures while under the influence of sodium pentothal, the so-called "truth serum."

Tuohy continued to deny knowledge of the "truth serum," but Dr. William Haines, head of the Cook county behavior clinic and one of the three psychiatrists who examined Heirens in the Bridewell jail hospital on June 29, quoted the youth as saying, "they put one over on me with this truth serum."

Tuohy has declined to comment on a conference last Sunday between state's attorney's officials and counsel for Heirens, a meeting at which the reported understanding was reached.

Brandenburg Named Honorary Chairman of Soap Box Derby

W. A. Brandenburg, president and owner of the Brandenburg Chevrolet company, was today named honorary chairman of the 1946 News-Journal Soap Box Derby.

Brandenburg Chevrolet and the YMCA are co-sponsors of the Derby with the News-Journal. The Mansfield race is set for July 31.

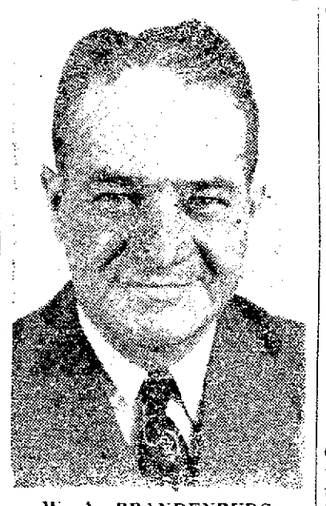
"Special weighing in ceremonies will be staged in the Chevrolet showrooms on Monday, July 29, starting at 9 a. m.", Brandenburg announced, "and cars will be judged and inspected at that time."

"All cars will be displayed in the showrooms until Tuesday night," he added.

Entry list for the '46 Derby will close at a driver's meeting Monday at 4 p. m. at the "Y". Any youngster, 11 to 15 years of age, desiring to enter the Derby can pick up blanks and rule books at the YMCA.

Fifty-four major prizes are on the gift list with the winner getting an all-expenses paid trip to the national finals at Akron on August 18. Shelby bicycles will be given the winner and runner-up by Brandenburg.

Every contestant will get a driver's crash helmet from Chevrolet Motors Division, General Motors and the News-Journal gives each coaster-pilot a racing shirt.



W. A. BRANDENBURG

Fifty-eight youths have signed for the races which will be held on Route 42, east, of Mansfield. Class A Division has 31 entrants and Class B, 16. Eleven youngsters have entered in Shelby but their names have not been forwarded to Don Cram, Derby director.

Latest Class A entries are: Harry Calvin Cole, 362 Henry street; James Ryan, 315 Washington avenue; and Mike George Siciliano, 375 Lexington avenue, and Kenneth Stone, James Klopfenstein and Donald Mitchell, Crestline.

Franklin Snively, 159 Blanch street, and David McLaughlin, Willard, have entered the Class B competition.

Inability to find a suitable hill has caused cancellation of the proposed time trials.

Rites Friday for Russell V. Keefer

Funeral services for Russell V. Keefer, 46, who died Tuesday evening at his home on the Wooster road, will be held tomorrow at 1 p. m. at the Wappner funeral home.

Mr. Keefer is survived by his mother, Nora; a sister, Mrs. Leo Blackstone, and two brothers, Clarence and Ira.

Rev. Homer Denney will be in charge of services and burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

PLANS HOUSING SURVEY SOON

A survey to determine where to locate the 76 additional temporary apartments granted Mansfield for veterans and their families will be conducted next week by the Mansfield Housing authority, Mayor Roy W. Vaughn said, today.

The federal government has authorized the additional units which will boost to 130 the number of temporary apartments being set up for vets. Near Mifflin, 74 others are nearing completion. The new units are expected to be erected in Mansfield proper.

Meanwhile, City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner said today that he has prepared legislation which will have to be passed by city council in order to officially sanction the new housing project and set up the city's share of money for it.

ISSUE LICENSES

BUCYRUS — Marriage licenses were issued in Probate court Wednesday to Ray E. Westenbarger, 34, Bucyrus, and Mary Adeline Maley, 34, Bucyrus, and to Paul A. Furry, 28, Crestline, and Geraldine V. Vook, 26, Crestline.

Applications for licenses were filed by Robert E. Heffelfinger, 26, Upper Sandusky, and Margaret Julian Simon, 25, Bucyrus, and by Delbert B. Barnhart, 23, Bucyrus, and Ida Mae Patten, 16, Bucyrus.

SHOOT FOR RECORD—

Several weeks of practice firing will reach a climax tomorrow for 15 Mansfield girls when they shoot for a National Rifle Association qualification record on the YMCA indoor range. The girls are all members of the Mansfield Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol girls rifle club. They have been practicing weekly under the direction of Clarence R. Hassinger, YMCA rifle instructor. Tomorrow's shoot will begin at 6:30 p. m.

IT WAS PIRATE DAY—

The skull and cross bones flag flew over Hidden Hollow yesterday as scores of Friendly House campers turned the site into a typical pirate lair under the leadership of Bill Zeigler, chosen "Captain Kidd" by popular vote. Dressed in pirate costumes made in craft classes, the entire camp was divided into four "gangs" of Billy Bones, Blackbeards, Blackdogs, and Blueskins, for land and water competition to win a treasure chest presented at campfire ceremonies last night. Typical pirate language was the order of the day and campers even had to "walk the plank" to get into the dining hall which was decked out as a Spanish galleon.

BURKE'S TWO UP—

Cleveland's Mayor Thomas A. Burke is now TWO "up" on Mansfield's Mayor Roy W. Vaughn. The chief executives recently have been exchanging invitations to attend various functions in their respective cities. First Burke invited Vaughn to attend the Mid-America exposition in Cleveland. Vaughn had to cancel his acceptance because, at the time, trains were strike-bound but "retaliated" by inviting Burke to come to Mansfield for the airport dedication program. Burke "trumped" that one with an invitation to Vaughn to attend Cleveland's Sesquicentennial celebration. Today comes a letter from Burke inviting Vaughn to be present at the Junior Olympics in Cleveland next month. Vaughn said that he doesn't yet know whether he'll be able to accept. And right now he hasn't a thing on his calendar to which he could invite Burke!

Webber Rites Set For 4 P. M. Friday

Funeral services for Walter F. Webber, 60, of 270 Park avenue east, will be conducted tomorrow at 4 p. m. at the Jones Memorial by Rev. Carveth P. Mitchell, pastor of the First English Lutheran church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Mr. Webber, a native Mansfielder, died suddenly at his home yesterday. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Dimon Herring, Mrs. Lee Stone and Mrs. J. W. Funk, and two brothers, Harry J. and Ernest C., all of Mansfield.

INFANT DIES

Word has been received here today of the death of the day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Chatlain of Chicago. The infant was born Tuesday morning in the Passavant Memorial hospital in Chicago. Both Mr. and Mrs. Chatlain are former Mansfielders.

BAILIFF SAYS NOBODY PUT INTO STREET

30 'Move-Out' Notices Are Asked By Landlords in Less Than Week.

Climbing steadily since the death of OPA 18 days ago, the number of eviction cases filed in municipal court reached 23 today and sent July well on its way toward setting an all-time high in ouster actions.

In the entire month of June only 20 cases were filed, and in May 19 were filed.

Meanwhile, Court Bailiff Basil Knapp reported that he has served, at the request of landlords, 30 three-day "move-out" notices since Saturday and that since July 1 he has served 50.

"Many of the people ordered out are able to find other quarters in Mansfield or outside the city," he said. "In other cases the landlords are giving them time to find other places," he added.

He said that seven families—living in one and two-room apartments—were ordered out of a Park avenue east home which was recently sold to a new landlord who will remodel it for a veteran's home and an art shop. All have moved out.

Ten other families have been ordered to move from a North Main street apartment to make way for the expansion of a store. They, too, live in one and two-room apartments.

So far only two families have moved, Knapp said.

"None of the evictees has had to be set out on the street," he said. "Where they're going we don't know, but evidently many of them are finding other places," Knapp said.

CHARLES BROWN DIES AGED 80

Native of Ireland Worked as Landscape Gardener Before Retirement.

Charles S. Brown, 80, 576 Arlington avenue, retired landscape gardener, died at Mansfield General hospital Wednesday at 11:30 p. m., following a brief illness.

He is survived by the widow, Emma Bell, three sons, Lawrence, of Columbus, Stephen and Cloyd, of Mansfield; four grandchildren; one brother, John E., of Los Angeles, and one sister, Miss Bertha Brown, of Medina.

Born in Neury, County Down, Ireland, he came to this country at 14. He had lived in Mansfield 51 years and was a member of St. Peter's Catholic church.

Friends may call at the Finefrock funeral home until the services which will be conducted at 10:30 a. m. Saturday at St. Peter's church by Msgr. R. C. Goebel. Burial will be in Mansfield Catholic cemetery.

OIL'S WELL!

City Getting New Supply to Continue Street Work.

Mansfield's exhausted road oil supply is expected to be replenished late this week permitting the resumption of a partially-completed road oiling project, Street Supt. C. H. Hebel said today.

Hebel said that delivery of from 4,000 to 6,000 gallons of oil is expected so that oiling projects on at least eight streets can be completed next week.

Already partially oiled are Chilton and Raymond avenues, Bowland road and Daisy, Lida, Purdy, East Fifth and Blecker streets, Hebel said.

W. H. Hoover, Retired Educator, Dies at Home on Poplar Street

William H. Hoover, 74, well-known educator of Richland and Mahoning county schools, died last night at his home, 126 Poplar street, following a lingering illness.

Born near Mansfield Sept. 10, 1871, Professor Hoover was the founder of a Richland county Manual arts and Agriculture school in 1913. Two years ago he returned from Clearwater, Fla., where he had spent 10 years teaching.

In 1889 he enrolled in the now extinct Greentown Academy at Perrysville. Following graduation from the Ashland Normal College he began teaching in Madison township schools in 1892. He also received a diploma from King's School of Elocution and Oratory, Pittsburgh, Pa.

In 1906 he visited the battlefields of the Civil War on research work. While in the South he taught in Charleston, Tenn., and later served as instructor in the Bradley County Institute, near Chattanooga. In 1911 after attending Ohio Northern University, Professor Hoover graduated from Ashland college.

He was a member of the First Lutheran church of Mansfield, the Teachers' Reading Circle and the Kent Extension school.

Surviving are his wife, Jane; one son, Paul Hoover of Cleveland, professor in Case School of Applied Science; one daughter, Mrs. Ruben Dailey of Stockdale, Mich.; one step-son, Ralph White of Mansfield; two brothers, George H. Hoover and Samuel D. Hoover; one sister, Mrs. Fred Frankeberger, all of Mansfield, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 3 p. m. at the Wappner funeral home in charge of Rev. Carveth P. Mitchell, pastor of the First Lutheran church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.
